FAILED TO YIELD—Danny E. Bennett, 23, Route 3, Chillicothe, driver of the car in the foreground, was cited by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Dixon, for failure to yield at a stop sign, at Route 22 east and 104 causing a two-car accident 3 p.m. Monday. Bennett had stopped at the southbound stop signs on 104 when he pulled into the path of a car driven by William Lester Murphy, 37, Lancaster, according to the sheriff's report. Murphy's car struck Bennett's car in the right fender. Both cars came to rest in the southeast corner of the intersection. Both drivers were referred to family doctors for minor injuries.

Information Leaks Rapped

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General William B. Saxbe says President Nixon was wrong to tell aids about secret grand jury proceedings on Watergate.

Saxbe on Monday defended Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen's actions in discussing with Nixon the grand jury investigation into the Watergate breakin. Saxbe said he believes Petersen would not have discussed the case with Nixon if he had known that it was thereafter immediately discussed with numerous people and leaked all over.

The attorney general was interviewed by columnist George Will for a program produced by the National Public Affairs Center for Television.

Will asked him: "Who was doing something wrong?"

Saxbe answered: "Well, the President in discussing this grand jury material with Mr. Haldeman and Mr. Ehrlichman, or whoever came in the office."

Former top Nixon aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman now are under indictment in the Watergate cover-up.

Petersen headed the original Watergate investigation before a special prosecutor was appointed.

The transcripts of White House conversations released by the White House show Petersen frequently went to the President's office to discuss the Family Of 5 Dead

PARK RIDGE, Ill. (AP) — Authorities are trying to piece together the final hours of a family neighbors described as close-knit, quiet and unassuming before death entered a neat suburban home.

Raymond A. Fuchs, 49, a purchasing agent for a small electronics manufacturer; his wife Ruth, 48; their daughter, Linda, 14, and son Scott, 16, were found slain Monday in the basement of their brick ranch-style house in this well-to-do suburb northwest of Chicago.

A fifth, badly burned body found in the kitchen of the home by firemen called to extinguish a blaze matched the description of the family's eldest son, Jeffrey, 18, but remained unidentified. Firemen said they had not determined the cause of the fire, but a fire official said it may it may have been started to cover up the slayings.

"It could be the body in the kitchen is also the person who started the fire," said Anthony Sciaraffa, deputy coroner of Cook County. "We definitely have a homicide in regard to the persons in the basement."

Fire Chief Norman Brown said the blaze apparently started in the basement, where gas and oil cans also were found, he said.

Nevertheless, Sciaraffa said none of the bodies found in the basement appeared to have been burned.

The body of Mrs. Fuchs was found investigation. The transcripts also show that Nixon passed this information to Haldeman and Ehrlichman.

"After the discussions (with Petersen), there were further discussions within that room on matters that Mr. Petersen had brought in about what was happening before the grand jury. And this was wrong," Saxbe said.

Saxbe defended Petersen's relaying of grand jury information to Nixon, saying, "Petersen's only boss at that time was the President of the United States and he had to look somewhere." Richard G. Kleindienst, who was the attorney general, had taken himself out of the case.

Bloodmobile Visit Set Friday

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will come to Pickaway County for a scheduled visit Friday at Community United Methodist Church. Hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Due to the usual summer slump and low donations at recent Bloodmobiles the Blood Center has faced several emergencies recently and elective surgeries have had to be postponed.

Residents of Pickaway County are urged to replace blood used by relatives and friends so that it will be available for others who need it.

Special requests for 4 B-pos and 15 O-Positive for Open Heart surgeries have been received from Dr. Melanie Kennedy, Medical Director of the Central Ohio Red Cross Blood Center. Five open heart surgeries are scheduled this week at four hospitals.

Donors are requested to make appointments by calling the Red Cross 474-5736. It is especially important that donors be scheduled between the hours of 12 and 2 p.m.

with her hands bound to a wash tub, said Sciaraffa. Linda's body lay next to her mother's.

The mother suffered a wound near the head and the daughter received two wounds on either side of the head. Sciaraffa did not describe the wounds. A bloodied kitchen knife which could have been used as a weapon was found nearby, Sciaraffa said.

Scott's body was found in another part of the basement. His hands were tied behind his back with a rope running around his neck, Sciaraffa said. Fuchs was found near his younger son. He was not bound. Neither showed any wounds, Sciaraffa said.

All the bodies were wrapped in bedding or blankets, Sciaraffa said.

Cause of the deaths was under investigation.

Brown said he believed the victims had been dead for at least 24 hours before found by firemen about 11 a.m.

Jeffrey was graduated from high school on Thursday but did not attend the commencement exercises.

Acting Police Chief Henry Olesky said neighbors told him they last saw members of the family on Saturday.

Neighbors and friends of the children said the family was well-liked, although they kept to themselves.

Each of the children played in the band at Maine East High School where they were enrolled and the parents were members of the school's Music Boosters Board.

Saxbe also contradicted presidential speechwriter Patrick Buchanan, who last week said the composition of the Watergate grand jury is unfair to Nixon.

Buchanan accused the grand jury of bias and pointed out that most of the jurors are black and Democrats.

"I don't think you could ever get a jury that would satisfy both the defendant and the prosecution, and especially after the fact," Saxbe said.

West Sizzles While East Stays Cool

By The Associated Press

Unseasonably cool weather clung to the Northeastern portion of the nation today while blistering heat seared Idaho and the Southwest.

Over all, fair skies were widespread, marred only by widely scattered rainfall.

The mercury sizzled up to 105 Monday at Boise, Idaho, to set a June 17 record there. Daytime temperatures have exceeded 95 in Boise for a week with unseasonably warm weather the rule from the Pacific to the Rockies.

In contrast, Eastern sections of the country again were on the cool to chilly side with readings in the 50s and occasional 40s common overnight.

Thundershowers sprinkled northern New England, southern Florida, the Missouri-Arkansas and Oklahoma-Texas borders and the southern Cascade Mountain range in the Pacific Northwest.

One injury was reported Monday from a tornado at Memphis, Tex. A funnel cloud was sighted early today north of Dallas.

Wind gusts reached 64 miles per hour during a thunderstorm at La Junta, Colo.

Cloudy weather with occasional rain persisted in the eastern Great Lakes region.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 42 at Philipsburg, Pa., to 94 at Needles, Calif.

Israelis Bomb In Lebanon

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli air force jets bombed and strafed Arab guerrilla targets in southeastern Lebanon today, five days after terrorists struck an Israeli kibbutz in northern Israel, the military command announced.

A communiqué said the raids began at 3:10 p.m. Israeli time, only minutes before President Nixon flew out of Amman, Jordan, ending his tour of the Middle East.

The attacks were on an area known as "Fatahland," just north of the Israeli border in the shadow of Mt. Hermon. The command said its aircraft returned safely.

Four Arab terrorists slipped across the border from Lebanon last Thursday and killed three women at the Shamir Kibbutz communal farm near the Golan Heights. The Arabs also were killed.

Israeli retaliatory raids generally follow closely such guerrilla raids, but the Tel Aviv command apparently held off because of Nixon's presence in the area.

Nixon Returns From Mideast

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — President Nixon ended his triumphant tour of the Middle East today with a promise of continued military and economic assistance to Jordan and an invitation to King Hussein for talks in Washington on "the strategy of future efforts to achieve peace" between the Arabs and Israel.

A joint Jordanian-American statement said the President and his royal host at the last stop on his five-nation swing discussed a whole range of Middle East issues and would resume these talks in Washington "at an early date."

Hussein and his wife, Queen Aliya, visited the United States last in March.

The statement promised a "special effort" by the U.S. government to assist Jordanian economic development and to "play a strong role in maintaining Jordan's military strength."

"It was agreed that a joint Jordanian-U.S. commission will be established at a high level to oversee and review on a regular basis the various areas of cooperation . . . in the fields of economic development, trade, investments, military assistance and scientific, social and cultural affairs."

While Nixon and the king conferred this morning, Mrs. Nixon visited the Roman ruins at Jerash, 20 miles north of Amman. She told newsmen accompanying her that the President's peace initiatives will be successful because the Arab leaders he has talked to "know that war takes money away from the people."

From Amman, Nixon was flying home via the Azores for an overnight stop on those mid-Atlantic Portuguese islands with the leader of the Portuguese revolution, President Antonio de Spínola.

Hussein hailed Nixon's "journey for peace" in a banquet toast Monday night but cautioned that "the final goal is still many milestones away."

Hussein said withdrawal of Israeli forces from some of the Jordanian territory captured in 1967 should be the next step and was "an essential prerequisite to any permanent settlement."

The king said he hoped this disengagement of Israeli and Jordanian forces along the Jordan River could be accomplished "with the strong and friendly hand of America," an indication that he would welcome a Jerusalem-Amman diplomatic shuttle by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Echoing what Nixon's hosts in Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Syria had told him, Hussein also called for Israeli withdrawal from all occupied Arab territory, restoration of Arab sovereignty over the Arab sector of Jerusalem, and recognition and restoration of the "legitimate rights of the Palestinian people" to return to their homeland and determine their own future.

Nixon in response said the United States is attempting to inject "one new element" into the Middle East—the use of its influence to bring together leaders of nations with disagreements "to try to find fair and just solutions to these problems."

He said he could not tell where or when his journey for peace would end, "the important thing is that it has begun." He promised that the United States "will do all that we can to keep the momentum going."

Nixon and his wife spent the night at a royal guest house atop an isolated, well-guarded hilltop 10 miles outside Amman.

Protection for the President's motorcades was the strongest of his tour.

President's Trip Brings No Changes

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — President Nixon has convinced four Arab leaders of his active neutrality between Israel and the Arabs, but he does not appear to have brought them closer to a compromise with Israel.

The American chief executive was told peace will never come to the Middle East without major concessions which Israel so far won't make—withdrawal from all territory captured from the Arabs, including Old Jerusalem, and restoration of Palestinian "rights."

The message was the same in Cairo, Jiddah, Damascus and Amman. Nixon admitted he had no solutions in his briefcase, but promised to use Washington's influence to maintain momentum for a settlement.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat talked of removal of Israeli forces from the Sinai Peninsula and of settling the Palestinian question.

King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, who considers himself the protector of Islam's holiest shrines, spoke of returning Jerusalem to Arab sovereignty.

Syria's President Hafez Assad stressed that military disengagement in the Golan Heights must be only a "first step toward . . . Israel's withdrawal from all occupied Arab territory and securing the national rights of the Palestinian people."

And King Hussein of Jordan asked Nixon to press for immediate Israeli withdrawal from the Jordan Valley, to create a six-mile demilitarized zone along the Jordan River similar to those separating Israeli forces from the Egyptian and Syrian armies on the Suez canal and the Golan Heights.

Hussein also outlined his ideas for a Palestinian solution: To let the 640,000 Palestinians on the West Bank of the Jordan River choose one of three alternatives once Israel withdraws—"continued union with Jordan, a new form of federation with the rest of Jordan or the creation of a separate state" uniting the West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

Nixon's constant references to the "new element in Arab-American friendship" symbolized by his Middle East tour resulted in hostile Israeli newspaper editorials. They complained of his agreement to sell Egypt nuclear reactors and fuel although it was matched by a similar pact with Israel.

Israeli leaders reacted coolly to Nixon's suggestion that they take political risks in pursuing "the right way of statesmanship" toward a Middle East compromise.

4 States Ignore Disaster Aid Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the nearly four weeks that the Federal Disaster Relief Act has been in effect, only two of six states declared disaster areas have taken advantage of its special grant program.

In addition, none of the other states declared disaster areas since April 20, 1973, and thus eligible for the program under a retroactivity clause, has asked to take part. Major disasters have occurred in 39 states since then.

Grants of up to $5,000 are available under the program to an individual or family after a major disaster if the applicants do not meet the qualifications of any of the other programs, which include loans and such direct assistance as rent-free housing and unemployment compensation.

States must meet 25 per cent of the grant costs, the federal government the remaining 75 per cent.

Only Arkansas and Oklahoma have joined the program. The governors of Missouri, Illinois, Minnesota and Kansas, which all were declared disaster areas last week, have not said whether their states will take part.

The governor of each state was informed of the law's provisions, including the retroactivity feature, when President Nixon signed it May 22.

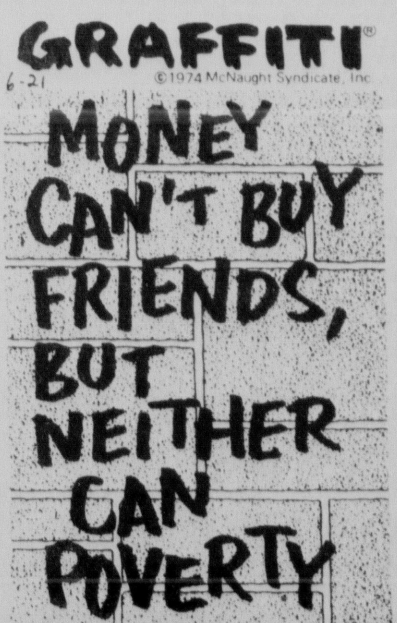

Officials at the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration view the grant program as just one factor in the various forms of aid available to disaster victims.

The assistance administration sets up special centers in disaster areas to receive applications for the grants and various other programs provided by the new law.

According to John Coleman, an agency spokesman, 352 applications

NEW YORK (AP) — Faint signs of a downturn in some short-term interest rates fed the stock market's current obsession today, bringing prices back from early morning lows.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 0.39 at 833.62. Shortly after opening, the blue-chip indicator was off more than 2 points in a carryover of Monday's 9.86 decline. Declines beat back advances 2 to 1, however, among 1,456 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was light.

Brokers say investors remained obsessed with high interest rates and their affect on corporate performance and the economy as whole. However, they note some optimism: several commercial paper companies, including the Federal National Mortgage Association, announced a reduction in short-term notes.

The American Stock Exchange's market-value index at noon was down .22 at 83.43. The most-active stock was Servotron, steady at 2 3/4.

Logan Elm Board Leases Needed Classroom Space

The Logan Elm Board of Education met in special session Monday to map plans for acquiring more classroom space at the high school and McDowell School.

The board adopted a resolution of urgent necessity authorizing the president and clerk to sign a lease agreement for four pre-engineered class rooms. The classrooms will permit the seventh and eighth grades from Laurelville to be relocated to McDowell School. Two of the classrooms are to be located adjacent to the high school and two adjacent to McDowell Building.

The lease agreement is for five years in the amount of $62,600 with the option to purchase the buildings at a minimal amount upon termination of the lease. The lease may be discontinued at any time by the board if the buildings should no longer be needed.

The board also discussed the plans for a 40 by 120 foot building to house the vocational agriculture classes. The building is needed for the school district to remain eligible for the state and federally funded vo ag program. Estimated cost of the vo ag building is $25,000.

LE local superintendent John Henn said the board hoped to be able to do much of the construction with volunteer labor to cut costs of the structure. Included in the plans for the vo ag building are restroom facilities for the athletic fields. However, it is not anticipated the restroom facilities will be completed by this fall.

The board has offered a 2-year contract to Ron Hoffman as vocational agriculture instructor. One-year contracts were offered to James Lytle, industrial arts; Deborah Lytle, Kindergarten; Janet Drake, elementary art; Kathryn Hill, elementary education.

Henn reported there are 13 vacancies on the teaching staff to be filled. An "across the board" pay increase for all non-certificated employees was approved. The increase is to be in two steps, 10 cents an hour effective July 1 and 15 cents an hour effective Jan. 1, 1975.

The budget for calendar year 1975 was discussed. Public inspection of the proposed budget will begin June 26 in the office of the clerk of the board of education. A public hearing on the proposed budget is scheduled July 8 and the board will act on adoption immediately after the hearing. The public inspection and hearing are required by law.

The board renewed the contract with E&E Insurance through the School Employers Trust Fund for life insurance for all employees. Teachers are insured in the amount of $5,000 and non-teaching personnel in the amount of $1,000.

A continuing resolution to accept all text books as adopted by the county board of education and to accept any other adoptions made during the 1974 calendar year was approved.

The lease agreement between the board of education and the Saltcreek Twp. trustees for the use of buildings at Saltcreek Twp. School for office space and storage of equipment was approved.

A resolution required by the Federal government that all Title I expenditures per child would be equal was approved. Goble Branham was designated by the board as the authorized representative for the Title I Program.

A resolution to participate in the multi school district plan for special education for the 1974-75 school year was approved.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Faint signs of a downturn in some short-term interest rates fed the stock market's current obsession today, bringing prices back from early morning lows.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 0.39 at 833.62. Shortly after opening, the blue-chip indicator was off more than 2 points in a carryover of Monday's 9.86 decline.

Declines beat back advances 2 to 1, however, among 1,456 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was light.

Brokers say investors remained obsessed with high interest rates and their affect on corporate performance and the economy as a whole. However, they note some optimism: several commercial paper companies, including the Federal National Mortgage Association, announced a reduction in short-term notes.

The American Stock Exchange's market-value index at noon was down .22 at 83.43. The most-active stock was Servotron, steady at 2%.

Forked Run Overlooks Ohio River Valley

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ohio has 62 state parks, but most Ohioans are familiar with only a few of the parks and the opportunities for outdoor recreation that they offer. This is one of a series of stories designed to make Ohioans more aware of what their state parks have to offer.

Forked Run State Park in Meigs County is in an area rich in Ohio River history.

Only a few hundred yards from the river, the park entrance is on Ohio Route 124 three miles south of Reedsville. An important boat building center during the early days of river boat traffic, Reedsville is adjacent to the Belleville Locks and Dam.

The dam complex, one of 19 constructed on the Ohio River for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, was completed in 1969 at a cost of $62 million. Many visitors to Forked Run State Park make the short trip to the dam to watch boats lock through.

Perhaps the most popular facet of the 794-acre Forked Run State Park is its camping area atop the hills overlooking the Ohio River valley.

The 198 Class B sites are in five different areas which stretch out on ridges. The heavily wooded spots are very popular with in-state and out-of-state campers, say Park Manager Doyle Smales.

The camping area has two showerhouses with hot water and laundry facilities. Drinking water, fire rings, vault-type latrines and a trailer waste station are provided.

The 102-acre Forked Run Lake offers good fishing for bass, muskellunge, catfish, trout, northern pike and crappies.

"Fishing is especially good for smallmouth bass, northern pike, and trout," says Jim Milliron, assistant manager at the park.

Forked Run is one of the few lakes in the state deep enough and cold enough to keep trout year round.

Boat launching facilities are provided on the east end of the lake off the main park road and on the north end of the lake at the end of Olive Township Road 272. Outboard motors are limited to six horsepower.

About 30 boat tie-ups are placed around the lake and may be rented for $10 each from March 1 to Nov. 1.

The park's concession stand, just off the main park road at the lake's eastern boat launching facility, has boats, canoes, and motors for rent. The stand also has sandwiches, soft drinks, ice and some groceries.

Many visitors to the park enjoy the grass beach on the south side of the lake. The swimming area, approximately 50 yards long, has a sand bottom gently sloping into the lake. Lifeguards are on duty seven days a week from Memorial Day through Labor Day.

More than 240 picnic tables are in a wooded area near the beach. Several waist high burners for cooking are nearby.

Hikers can try three trails in the park ranging from one-half mile in length to 3½ miles. The trails run along the lake and into the hilly terrain of the park.

Horsemen can use a bridle trail in Shade River State Forest adjacent to the park. Parking facilities are on the north side of the forest near Ohio Route 681.

Much of the 2,400 acres in the forest are coming up in second growth pitch pine and Virginia pine. The forest, complete with steep gorges and rocky sandstone ridges, abounds with oak, hickory and native pine trees.

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources' division of watercraft operates a boat launching facility at nearby Coolville on the Hocking River. From the facility, boats can ply their way down the Hocking to the Ohio River.

The park, which opened to the public in June of 1953, is 20 miles east of Pomeroy and 34 miles southwest of Marietta. Forked Run is 107 miles southeast of Columbus via U.S. Route 33.

Girls State Participants Kept Busy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The third day of Buckeye Girls State was packed with programs in city government and a lesson in parliamentary procedure.

Primary elections for candidates in the Nationalist and Federalist parties were to be held Tuesday morning.

The general election was to be that afternoon.

Meanwhile, the chairman of the Ohio Rehabilitation Services Commission called on the American Legion Auxiliary, sponsor of the event, to abandon its policy of prohibiting participation by severely handicapped girls.

Dr. Albert W. Van Fossen said he deplores the situation.

"The handicapped, as other people, must be treated as individuals and not as a categorical group," he said in a statement.

"Given the opportunity, handicapped persons demonstrate tremendous ability to overcome their problems. But first they must be given the opportunity," he said.

Girls State this year has come under heavy criticism from some government officials for its policy of prohibiting handicapped girls from taking part.

The American Legion Auxiliary contends handicapped girls would be unable to keep up with the pace of the citizenship event.

Utilities' Gift Outlays Attacked

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The Consumers League of Ohio has asked the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio to deny utilities the right to include contributions to charity as part of the cost of doing business.

It is an issue the PUCO is considering. "We question the ethics of furnishing money to some agencies and not others, effectively subsidizing principles not always subscribed to by the unaware contributor, the consumer," wrote League President Clinton L. Warner.

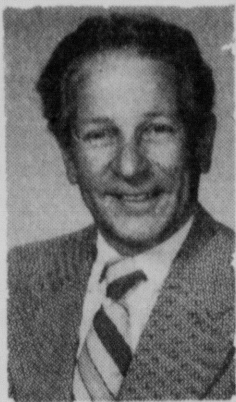

Ostriches live from 30 to 70 years and the mating call of the male cock resembles the distant roaring of lions, states Grzimek's Animal Life Encyclopedia.

24-Inch Handlebar Mustache Big Enough For Top Award

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Jay Nestle, a Colorado butcher who must be careful not to let his 24-inch handlebar mustache interfere with his work, is the winner of the second annual International Father's Mustache Competition.

Nestle said he plans to let his mustache grow until 1976, when Colorado celebrates its centennial. He estimates that by that time his mustache will have reached 36 to 40 inches.

So far, he has been able to cope with his extra-long handlebar while working at Chuck's Quality Meats in Broomfield, Colo.

"It hits the saw once in a while, but not the blade," Nestle said. "It interferes more with recreation than with work." Nestle, 36, was invited to take part in the contest Sunday after his photograph appeared in a local newspaper.

There were about 40 contestants.

Nestle says he spends about 10 to 15 minutes a day on the mustache, and about three hours at least twice a week to shampoo and wax it.

His mustache also was awarded a first place in the "most kissable" category by Susan White, a local television personality.

Prizes also were awarded for the most fatherly, droopiest, most struggling, most bristly, most villainous, most debonair and bushiest mustaches.

A Page Of Opinion

Food From The Sea

There are invincible optimists who refuse to be alarmed over the rapid exhaustion of the Earth's natural resources. Substitutes, they are sure, will be found.

Nor do they share anxiety about burgeoning population, although hunger already afflicts many parts of the world. Agricultural production, they say, can be greatly increased. Besides, they add, man has only begun to tap the edible resources of the sea.

Whatever may be said about the rest of their carefree theories, the illusion that the seas contain an inexhaustible supply of food finds fewer takers than formerly.

The world's annual fish catch went from 25 million tons 20 years ago to more than 50 million. This is the full capacity of the principal fishing grounds. Yields will probably level off by the turn of the century, but the population will not.

The greatest prospect for increasing food supplies from the sea lies in new areas of unknown capacity, and in scientific cultivation of marine life.

Pollution raises the possibility that it may not be possible to maintain even the existing levels of the sea harvest. Pollution pours into the sea from many of the Earth's rivers.

Its effects are clearly visible in the death of marine life in the estuaries of polluted river systems. Moreover, solids remaining from sewage filtration processes are being dumped at sea.

The oceans are vast, but their expanse is relatively stable, while the Earth's population, and the wastes it produces, expand explosively.

Drop In Hog Prices

Are hogs leading the way in a downward trend in prices? In a matter of months hog prices have dropped 40 per cent on livestock markets.

When a turnaround in inflation comes, it probably will be piecemeal. That is the route by which prices reached their present plateaus.

Hogs could be the index figure to watch. If hog prices drop further and stay down, the downturn in prices could become a trend.

Economists have been caught with the wrong predictions so often recently, they aren't saying much. Most of them are stuck with their predictions of more inflation to come, a few with predictions of a momentous depression.

Both are probably wrong. Anyway, that seems to be the message hogs are trying to deliver to them.

CARIO, June 12. — President Nixon had the shock of his recent life. Today he rode past about two million people in an open car from the airport to Kubbah Palace where he and Pat will stay while here, and did not hear a single boo. There wasn't a protester along the parade route. Nobody carried a sign reading, "Impeach Nixon," or "Pay Your Taxes," or "Resign."

The nearly one hour ride into the city through human palisades, under a sun that pushed temperatures beyond 90 degrees, was the greatest reception of his life. It was far beyond the modest tumult he aroused on his trips to China and the Soviet Union in his prime — 1972. It was infinitely bigger and better than the one that greeted him on the first stop of this curious tour, the layover in Salzburg.

He and his party arrived at that picture postcard city in Austria at 10 o'clock Monday night in a dreary drizzle, and stood in it while enduring the strains of an off-key oompah brass band that must have caused the city's patron saint, Mozart, to whirl in his mausoleum.

Today was a day that was so lovingly hospitable that it must have made him forget for at least a few hours all the problems and threats that have descended upon him in the past year and a half: Watergate, impeachment processes, subpoenas, tapes, defections, alleged bribes, dirty tricks, a popularity collapse without precedent in the annual of the polls, and, as of yesterday, the stunning possibility that Henry Kissinger might desert his stricken ship of state.

Seated beside President Anwar Sadat in a car the Secret Service would never permit him to ride in the United States, Nixon waved back happily and gratefully at a throng whose size and enthusiasm recalled the triumphant trips of President Eisenhower near the end of his second term. The colorfully garbed multitudes never stopped chanting their welcomes as he passed through seas of them on this trip to the sumptuous palace that once was one of the pleasure domes of Egypt's last ruling slob, King Farouk. Forests of placards in Arabic and English waved by countless onlookers saluted the President with such morale-building inscriptions as HAIL NIXON WE TRUST NIXON — A MAN OF HONOR YOU HAVE OUR CONFIDENCE. GOD BLESS YOU MR. NIXON.

There were countless lithographic impressions of him and President Sadat, papier mache arches bearing their likenesses — somewhat garish but undeniably reverent — and hosts of Egyptians of all ages, sizes and raiment wagging the V-for victory sign in his direction. NEW YORK (AP) — The announcement by the Treasury that stores could offer customers change in scrip instead of pennies during the penny shortage seems innocuous enough. After all, what's a penny worth?

Most customers will agree: Not much. It's when the pennies are bunched, such as when the price of a can of peas is raised to 26 cents from 23 cents, that customers are irked. One penny, though, is hardly worth worrying about.

Maybe so. But if you reviewed grocery store economics you might change your mind. A penny, insignificant as it seems to be, represents the profit on $1 of sales at many stores. At some it might be the profit on $2 of sales.

One penny to each of a thousand customers isn't going to impress any one of them. But a thousand pennies that customers fail to redeem makes a

NICKSON.

In the course of a brief exchange of compliments on the balcony of Kubbah Palace after the parade, Nixon said to Sadat that he was "enormously moved" by the reception the people had given him. (Some of them, trying to break through to his car to shake his hand, had been stopped by police.) Then in concluding his remarks, he turned to his swarthy and beaming host and said the historians years later will perhaps see all of these great events in perspective. But one fact stands out today. That without the vision, without the courage, without the statesmanship of President Sadat, we would not have made the progress toward peace that we have made. The world owes him a great debt for what he has done. So it was a good day for both men.

mighty impression on stores. It may be as good as $1,000 in sales.

The question arises, therefore, about how people will use the scrip that some stores will be inclined to issue.

Will they carefully safeguard it and trade it in for goods on their next trip to the store? Or will they discard it?

Inflation discriminates, especially when it is concentrated in the basic necessities of life. Food is probably the most basic need, and that is where the biggest price increases have been concentrated.

While it is true that the rich do spend more money on food than do the poor, there is a limit to how much either can consume before their appetites are satisfied. As a percentage of income, food expenditures therefore might be only 10 per cent for some of the rich.

The poor, however, sometimes never reach a point of satiety. Instead, they might spend more than 30 per cent of income on food and still be unable to satisfy the requirements of nutrition or the desires of taste.

The Labor Department just released three Hypothetical budgets for a family living on a minimum income, an intermediate budget and a high budget. The low one includes no luxuries; the high budget includes many.

In the period from autumn 1972 to autumn 1973, the department said, the low budget for an urban family of four rose 10.8 per cent, but the intermediate budget increased only 10.3 per cent and the high only 9.9.

The main reason: food prices. The increase during the period was around 19 per cent, and that increase pertained to both the rich and the poor.

That same study demonstrated also how inflation discriminates geographically. It cost more to live in a metropolitan area than in rural area, and more to live in the North than in the South.

On the lower budget, for example, it cost $7,233 to live in Austin, Tex., $3,988 in Boston, and $12,010 in Anchorage, Alaska.

Rice is such an important part of Asian diets that in Chinese and Japanese the words for rice are synonymous with "food" or "meal." At one time or another, the grain has served as money in many countries.

Mrs. T. H., Maine

Dear Mrs. H.:

Impetigo, technically known as impetigo contagiosa, is a highly contagious skin condition.

It is caused by the staphylococcus or the streptococcus germ. It occurs in infants and young children and is passed from one to another in such places as camps and schools.

Immediate isolation of infected children and strict hygienic measures are the only way to keep this infection from spreading.

It is not a dangerous condition — antibiotics can bring it under control.

Party Pays For Nixon Mailings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although Republican Chairman George Bush said he was disturbed by portions of President Nixon's taped Watergate conversations, the GOP National Committee paid more than $10,000 to finance a massive White House mail campaign circulating a favorable interpretation of the transcripts.

Party headquarters has regularly processed and paid for White House mailings to interest groups and communications media. The transcript material was by far the most massive this year.

William J. Baroody Jr., special consultant to the President who deals with outside organizations, directed that a 15-page packet be sent to more than 28,000 persons from more than 40 mailing lists maintained by the GOP.

Long Grass In Parks Aid Wildlife

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — They've stopped mowing the lawns in Milwaukee County parks and park officials say wild flowers and animals are flourishing in the shaggy urban habitat.

"Nature progresses from weeds to grass to flowers," says Robert Mikula, general manager of parks. He endorses the natural look, and the tax dollars saved by cutting labor costs and fuel bills.

There were some complaints last summer that the unkempt look downgraded the neighborhoods where the parks are located. But Arthur Ode, an assistant superintendent of parks, said Sunday he received calls this year about cutting too much grass.

"It's expensive to mow all that grass," Ode said. "We couldn't do it all anyway because of the gas shortage. And we've found it esthetically pleasing to have long grass."

Ode said the higher grass inspires rabbits, mice, raccoons, possum, deer and ground-nesting birds such as bobolinks, partridge, pheasant and meadowlarks to live in the city.

"And when you hold on to those small birds and mammals, their predators are next to move in," he said. "We're getting hawks and owls, birds of prey, and they are the most beautiful in flight."

Ode said several hundred acres of parkland, representing about 10 per cent of the county park system's turf, are growing wild.

They ranged from leaders of veterans organizations to Chamber of Commerce officials; from 1972 Nixon campaign workers to members of the Teamsters union executive board.

The mailing included the text of Nixon's April 29 address in which he said he would give edited transcripts, but not original tapes, to the House impeachment inquiry.

A similar mailing ordered by Ken W. Clawson, White House communications director, went to 3,269 news organizations and publications.

Both mailings included brief transcript excerpts supporting Nixon's contention that he knew nothing of the Watergate coverup until March 21, 1973.

Bush had said after reading the transcripts that they were "shook up" about some portions, although he said other segments tended to support Nixon.

A party official said there was no special discussion about the massive mailings and that they were sent out routinely, as were 37 other mailings for the White House this year.

Though most of the mailings Clawson and Baroody ordered this year have dealt with Nixon programs in such areas as energy, some concerned Watergate and related affairs.

One dealt with the ITT and milk investigations, another a speech by Vice President Gerald R. Ford strongly supporting Nixon. Three included articles from publications defending Nixon, two contained texts of White House briefings related to Watergate and another distributed a favorable public opinion poll.

Ohio Employment Remains Stable

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The employment situation in Ohio remained stable in the 15 months between Jan. 1, 1973 and March 31, 1974, despite the nation's soft economic shape, it was reported today.

William E. Gurnes, administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services, said a survey of eight industrial states for the period showed only Ohio and Illinois remained below the national unemployment rate.

Ohio's average rate of unemployment for the period was 4.4 per cent, he said, compared with a national level of 5 per cent.

Ohio entered the testing period with an unemployment rate of 4.6 per cent, Gurnes said. It was 5.2 per cent in the state at the end of March.

They'll Do It Every Time

A Page Of Opinion

Food From The Sea

There are invincible optimists who refuse to be alarmed over the rapid exhaustion of the Earth's natural resources. Substitutes, they are sure, will be found.

Nor do they share anxiety about burgeoning population, although hunger already afflicts many parts of the world. Agricultural production, they say, can be greatly increased. Besides, they add, man has only begun to tap the edible resources of the sea.

Whatever may be said about the rest of their carefree theories, the illusion that the seas contain an inexhaustible supply of food finds fewer takers than formerly.

The world's annual fish catch went from 25 million tons 20 years ago to more than 50 million. This is the full capacity of the principal fishing grounds. Yields will probably level off by the turn of the century, but the population will not.

The greatest prospect for increasing food supplies from the sea lies in new areas of unknown capacity, and in scientific cultivation of marine life.

Pollution raises the possibility that it may not be possible to maintain even the existing levels of the sea harvest. Pollution pours into the sea from many of the Earth's rivers.

Its effects are clearly visible in the death of marine life in the estuaries of polluted river systems. Moreover, solids remaining from sewage filtration processes are being dumped at sea.

The oceans are vast, but their expanse is relatively stable, while the Earth's population, and the wastes it produces, expand explosively.

Drop In Hog Prices

Are hogs leading the way in a downward trend in prices? In a matter of months hog prices have dropped 40 per cent on livestock markets.

When a turnaround in inflation comes, it probably will be piecemeal. That is the route by which prices reached their present plateaus.

Hogs could be the index figure to watch. If hog prices drop further and stay down, the downturn in prices could become a trend.

Economists have been caught with the wrong predictions so often recently, they aren't saying much. Most of them are stuck with their predictions of more inflation to come, a few with predictions of a momentous depression.

Both are probably wrong. Anyway, that seems to be the message hogs are trying to deliver to them.

The Ohio House of Representatives this week wrapped up the formal legislative work of the 110th General Assembly. Conference Committees comprised of members of both houses will continue their work of ironing out differences between the two houses on several key issues.

There were a number of important pieces of legislation passed this week which will affect all Ohioans. Space does not permit a detailed explanation of all measures passed. I will go into depth on these issues in later columns.

Briefly legislation passed includes:
—An emergency measure on its way to Governor Gilligan which authorizes regional and county mass transit authorities organized before January 1, 1975 to ask voters to approve up to a 5 mill real estate property increase or up to a 1-1/2 per cent piggyback sales tax. The measure affects all mass transit authorities in the state and is designed to give these authorities a means by which they could properly finance mass transportation.

—Legislation extending the ban on gas and oil drilling in Lake Erie. The current drilling ban expires July 1. The measure extends the ban until July 1, 1978.

—A "Good Samaritan" bill passed both houses which will allow up to $10,000 in state compensation to a private citizen injured or killed while trying to prevent a crime against another person. Citizens injured or killed while aiding a policeman or seeking to apprehend a criminal are also covered by the bill.

—Legislation allowing disaster-stricken cities to qualify as impacted cities, making redevelopment easier by offering developers property tax breaks.

—Allowing the transfer of crippled children's services from the control of the Ohio Department of Public Welfare to the Department of Health. This will facilitate better service to the children by prompt payment to those who serve them.

—A measure establishing an Ohio ballot board to prescribe language, prepare explanations, and disseminate information on constitutional amendments. Use of a ballot board was approved by voters in the May election.

If a full text of the issues is not printed on the ballot, the legislation requires a full text of the amendment to be posted in each polling place.

—Legislation bringing Ohio's Home Solicitation Sales Law into closer conformity with federal regulations regarding the three-day cooling-off period for door-to-door sales. The seller must inform the buyer orally of his right to cancel. A buyer is permitted to deliver the notice of cancellation by mail, telegram, or other means.

Sellers are allowed to use one form of written contract which meets the requirements of both Ohio and federal law.

Key legislative issues that went into Conference Committees during the closing hours of the Assembly include:

—A supplemental appropriation bill allowing for the expenditure of revenue generated by Ohio's new lottery. Major differences surrounding the bill concern the amount of money available.

—Legislation regulating landlord-tenant relations. Major differences between the House and Senate versions include provisions for the exclusion of rental farm property from the bill's provisions, no provisions for requiring a landlord to store a tenant's personal property for 40 days following an eviction, and provisions for the appointment of a receivership.

—The probate reform bill which was previously passed by the House, but upon its return from the Senate in no way resembled the House version.

Mt. McKinley Becoming Trash Dump

MT. MCKINLEY NATIONAL PARK, Alaska (AP) — Mountaineers returning from climbing Mt. McKinley say it's the highest garbage dump on the North American continent.

Peter Blewett, a novice Anchorage climber, returned recently from his first assault on the peak and said he saw a rolled-up mattress in the snow with an empty beer can perched on top.

"It does ruin the aesthetic experience," Blewett said. "You're up there, so far away, and the purity of the mountain and glacier is what you're going there to experience. But it was like going over some camping trail and stumbling over someone's beer cans."

A team of Swiss climbers returned two weeks ago with similar complaints.

Ned Lewis, a seasonal climbing ranger, says that if the littering keeps up at its present rate, in five years "you'll be able to walk to the summit on a trail of garbage."

The problem stems from the strenuous work of climbing at higher altitudes. Mountaineers lighten their loads by discarding what they no longer need. Cleanup crews say they find gas cans, food, paper, boots, skis, rope, snowshoes and tents.

More and more climbers are coming to scale the 20,320-foot peak. Ten years ago, only four expeditions climbed McKinley. This summer, the mountain has 40 teams scheduled with an average of five members per team.

Boys State Elections Are Held

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP) — Young men attending Buckeye Boys State began performing various functions of state and local government today, following elections held during the weekend.

The first order of business of the mock legislature was to elect a Speaker of the House.

County engineers were to begin mapping out streets and highways for their mythical cities, a spokesman said.

Also, mock courts began hearing cases and commissions began drawing up budgets.

"Everything a citizen is expected to do, we're doing," the spokesman said. Gov. John J. Gilligan was to address a general assembly later today.

The program ends Friday.

Officers elected over the weekend included Joseph Johns of Columbus, governor; Alan Veatch of Columbus, lieutenant governor; Steven Roth of Canfield, secretary of state, and David Kastan of Ashland, treasurer.

Buckeye Boys State is a citizenship program sponsored by the American Legion.

Nixon Popularity Rises Slightly

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — President Nixon's popularity rating increased from its low point of 25 per cent to 28 per cent after the Middle East cease-fire agreement, according to the latest Gallup Poll.

Of more than 1,500 persons interviewed May 31 through June 3, 28 per cent said they approved of the way Nixon is handling his job. Sixty-one per cent said they disapproved, and 11 per cent offered no opinion.

In a May 10-13 poll, 25 per cent said they approved of Nixon's performance, 61 per cent said they disapproved and 14 per cent offered no opinion.

Windmill Power Making Comeback

BOSTON (AP) — Sea breezes have better uses than sailing boats, flying kites and drying laundry, says a college professor. He has in mind giant windmills that would generate all New England's electricity.

"This is an energy resource that's right here in our front yard," says Prof. William E. Heronemus.

The front yard is New England's 473-mile coastline. And the resource is the wind that whistles up and down the coast at an average speed of 20 miles an hour.

If enough windmills were anchored off the coast, all the region's electricity could come from the air by the 1990s, he says. And it would only cost about three-fifths of what people are paying now.

The professor is a civil engineer at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst who specializes in alternate sources of energy.

Getting people to take the wind seriously has been a problem for Heronemus. Their skepticism starts to show when he tells them how many windmills it would take: 14,700 anchored off the coast at distances ranging from 12 to 200 miles from shore.

Each windmill would be a diamond shaped, lattice work mast rising 340 feet above the water. Each would hold three massive propellers 200 feet in diameter.

With 14,700 windmills outfitted with three propellers each, "that's 40,000 generators," Heronemus says. "I claim this is part of the reason for its success. You could set up a factory type of production that could get this down to a very, very reasonable cost." He says his system could churn out 159 billion kilowatt hours of electricity a year — four times as much as the six New England states used last year. And the load could be doubled without any problems, he says.

Heronemus says that there are technological questions about the scheme, but he says they can be worked out.

One is designing the propellers so they will turn easily and withstand hurricanes. Another is what to do when the wind is calm.

William Irving, director of research and environmental affairs for Boston Edison, said utilities are studying the uses of wind, and it might be a good source of electricity in the future. But right now, they are going ahead with a program to build nuclear power plants.

William Jones, a staff associate at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Energy Laboratory, said generating electricity by wind is a definite possibility, but more money must be spent to work out the technology.

FBI Actions 'Not Right'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe says he has assigned a Justice Department committee to look into FBI counterintelligence practices "that were just not right."

"I expect to take it before Congress and to tell Congress exactly what happened," Saxbe said Sunday in disclosing the investigation of the counterintelligence program approved by late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Without specifying incidents, Saxbe said the operation "meant that (Hoover) was taking active measures to stop the violence on campus and the racist activities and what he considered Communist activities."

Asked if the operation involved improper conduct, the attorney general replied: "I'm afraid so."

Saxbe was interviewed on the NBC radio program, "Speaking Freely."

Couple Married In Supermarket

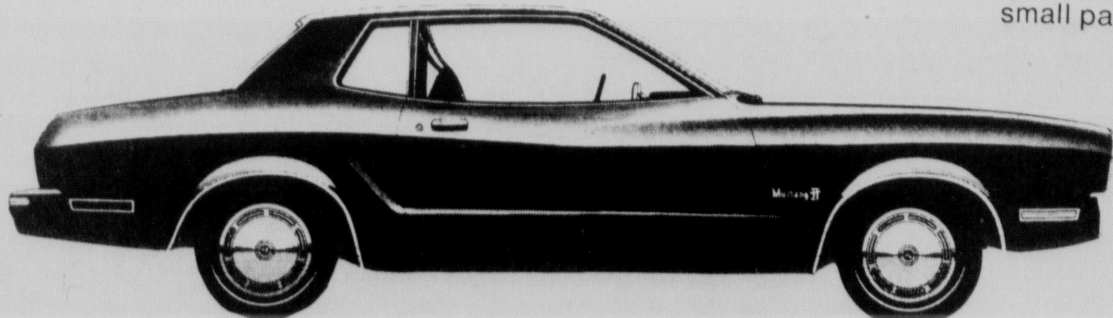

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A couple who met over the lettuce were married between the bread and the pastries at a supermarket here.

"I saw her and flirted, and she kind of flirted back," 38-year-old Larry Wilde recalled of his new bride, Mary Poulos Wilde, 23.

"And I waited outside for her with my shopping cart until she came out, and I followed her to her car and poof, we've been dating ever since," Wilde said.

Stanley Ralph Ross, minister of the Universal Life Church and a TV scriptwriter, stood on an altar of soap pad cartons at the supermarket wedding and pronounced the pair "husband and wife and two for the price of one."

The Jimmy Lullen Band from Columbus played music during the social hour and also during the dinner hour.

A ham dinner was served by the Amanda-Clearcreek band members to the 320 alumni and guests present. Each table had vases of yellow, pink, white and blue daisies plus two centerpieces on the head table. Purple and gold crepe paper was twisted down the center of the tables.

Woman Dies, 17 Injured At Carnival

BOSTON (AP) — A woman was killed and 17 other persons were injured when a spinning carnival ride malfunctioned, hurtling the riders as far as 50 feet away.

A spokesman at Massachusetts General Hospital said Mary Pero, 20, of Cambridge died at a hospital of internal injuries suffered in the accident, which marred Bunker Hill Day festivities Sunday in the Charlestown section of Boston.

Boston police said the accident occurred after a series of disputes and fights among young people and carnival workers.

Police said an operator of the ride had to leave his post after he was injured in a fight. A second operator came to the controls of the ride, which apparently malfunctioned as he attempted to operate it.

Police said the ride, called "The Hurricane," suddenly increased speed, throwing a group composed mostly of youngsters to the ground. Most of the youths who were tossed from their seats landed on the grass nearby.

The Hurricane ride seats about two dozen persons in six bullet-shaped "rocket" gondolas which move up and down and in a circular motion simultaneously. It is designed to move at 11 rotations per minute.

Black Pastor Wins Election As Presbyterian Moderator

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A black Georgia pastor, the Rev. Dr. Lawrence Wendell Bottoms is the new southern Presbyterian moderator, the first of his race to win the top post in the denomination's 113-year history.

He was elected Sunday night in a three-way contest with two white clergymen at the start of the annual governing assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.

A mainly white body, it emerged from the slavery issues of the Civil War. It has about 900,000 members in 16 southern and border states of whom only about 7,000 are black.

Dr. Bottoms, 66, of Atlanta, pastor of an integrated congregation in suburban Decatur, the Oakhurst Presbyterian Church, called his election "a breakthrough...in a changing south."

"I see a morning star through the open door God has set before this church in moving to stand beside all minorities...in a new unity in Christ across all class and racial lines."

The assembly greeted his victory with standing applause.

He won a majority of 234 votes on a first ballot, to 121½ for the Rev. Dr. Kenneth G. Phifer of New Orleans, and 51½ for the Rev. Dr. Albert J. Kissing of Jacksonville, Fla.

In a brief installation ceremony, when the outgoing moderator, the Rev. Charles Kraemer of Richmond, Va., placed a chain bearing a Celtic cross around Dr. Bottoms' neck as an emblem of office, the new moderator remarked laughingly:

"Any time any white person puts anything around my neck it always makes me nervous."

A tall, graying man, Dr. Bottoms has held numerous denominational posts, represented his church in ecumenical councils and previously was the first black moderator of the regional Kentucky Synod and local Louisville Presbytery in 1963.

He "would be beautiful even if he weren't black," said the Rev. John B. Danhoff of Dallas, who nominated Dr. Bottoms for the top denominational office.

"His election will say loudly and clearly to the world who we are as southern Presbyterians," he said.

Dr. Bottoms told an impromptu news conference afterward that he favors a projected plan for reunion with the United Presbyterian Church, a national body of 3 million.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Poetry Is Not Edible

DEAR ABBY: I dropped out of high school to be married. I am now 30, divorced, and have three children. We are totally dependent on welfare.

If I went to work I could earn $1.90 an hour as a motel maid, but here is my dilemma: I attend (but am not enrolled in) the poetry workshops of two colleges in my city. My teachers say I am very talented, and they urge me to stay with writing poetry. I have been published in some of the best literary magazines in the nation, and have had some very encouraging letters from editors, although they haven't paid me anything. My ambition is to become a major poet.

I have spent two years in therapy, but I can't analyze away my need to write poetry.

Now I must make a choice between my children's physical needs and what my family calls my "selfish ambition." I welcome your advice.

POOR, SCORNED AND TORN
DEAR P., S. AND T.: Since you are able to work I think you should get off welfare. Thus far your poetry has netted you only non-edible letters of encouragement. I advise you to get a paying job, and write poetry in your spare time.

DEAR ABBY: I am interested in the strange case of the woman who went to confession and was upset by the priest who confessed his own troubles to her. Even stranger was your advice that the priest should see a doctor!

So here's the situation: If a woman confesses to a priest, she's religious, but if a priest confesses to a woman, he's sick.

My God, Abby, if that's the best you can do, you should quit. Why didn't you simply advise the poor fellow to go to another priest and confess?

INFIDELO
DEAR INF: The priest didn't merely "confess" to a woman—he broke down and wept—and to a parishioner who had come to HIM to confess yet. (This is healthy?)

True, another priest might have relieved the first priest's guilt by hearing his confession, but only a doctor can diagnose and treat one for an emotional disturbance, which appears to be the case here.

DEAR ABBY: I am a sailor who will be going on leave soon. I expect to be met at the airport by my parents and my girl friend. My problem is I don't know whose arms I should go to first. It will be a year and six months since I have been home.

You always say put your mate above all others because your mate will be your lifelong companion. Well, I am not married yet, but I think my girl friend will expect me to go to her first, and my mother will expect me to go to her first.

I love them both very much and wouldn't want to hurt either one, so whose arms do you recommend?

Meat Prices Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ways to lower meat prices will be probed Monday at a White House meeting of everybody in the industry from cattlemen to supermarkets, White House economics adviser Kenneth Rush said Friday.

Meat prices are too high, Rush said, and the meeting is being called to explore ways to lower them.

Meat packers and retailers are enjoying the highest profit margins on meat in a long time and they appear to be "higher than they should be," Rush said.

On the other hand, he said, feedlot operators are in serious financial difficulty because they are losing as much as $100 to $200 a head in a squeeze between high grain prices and the low prices they receive.

The answer, Rush said, is not to reimpose quotas on meat imports, as advocated by many in the cattle industry.

He said retailers and packers need to decrease prices to increase sales and Monday's meeting will focus in part on ways to do this.

Four miles isn't very far to go, unless you're drilling a hole.

Four miles is just about how deep we're drilling into the earth now, in the Appalachian area, to find more natural gas. That's about three miles deeper than most wells in the area have ever gone. And the deeper the well, the more it costs—as much as $1 million a mile.

Deep-drilling is a high-risk, high-cost venture. But Columbia is doing it to seek more clean-burning natural gas that will help solve the energy crisis. And, when you consider the alternative of less energy, we think you'll agree that the price is not too high.

Columbia Gas is investing millions of dollars to develop many new sources of gas—in the Arctic, under the sea, overseas, from petroleum liquids, from coal — as well as exploring four miles deep right here in our backyard.

COLUMBIAGAS is doing something about the energy crisis.

Black Pastor Wins Election As Presbyterian Moderator

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A black Georgia pastor, the Rev. Dr. Lawrence Wendell Bottoms is the new southern Presbyterian moderator, the first of his race to win the top post in the denomination's 113-year history.

He was elected Sunday night in a three-way contest with two white clergymen at the start of the annual governing assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.

A mainly white body, it emerged from the slavery issues of the Civil War. It has about 900,000 members in 16 southern and border states of whom only about 7,000 are black.

Dr. Bottoms, 66, of Atlanta, pastor of an integrated congregation in suburban Decatur, the Oakhurst Presbyterian Church, called his election "a breakthrough...in a changing south."

"I see a morning star through the open door God has set before this church in moving to stand beside all minorities...in a new unity in Christ across all class and racial lines."

The assembly greeted his victory with standing applause. He won a majority of 234 votes on a first ballot, to 121½ for the Rev. Dr. Kenneth G. Phifer of New Orleans, and 51½ for the Rev. Dr. Albert J. Kissling of Jacksonville, Fla.

In a brief installation ceremony, when the outgoing moderator, the Rev. Charles Kraemer of Richmond, Va., placed a chain bearing a Celtic cross around Dr. Bottoms' neck as an emblem of office, the new moderator remarked laughingly:

"Any time any white person puts anything around my neck it always makes me nervous."

A tall, graying man, Dr. Bottoms has held numerous denominational posts, represented his church in ecumenical councils and previously was the first black moderator of the regional Kentucky Synod and local Louisville Presbytery in 1963.

He "would be beautiful even if he weren't black," said the Rev. John B. Danhoff of Dallas, who nominated Dr. Bottoms for the top denominational office.

"His election will say loudly and clearly to the world who we are as southern Presbyterians," he said.

Dr. Bottoms told an impromptu news conference afterward that he favors a projected plan for reunion with the United Presbyterian Church, a national body of 3 million.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Poetry Is Not Edible

DEAR ABBY: I dropped out of high school to be married. I am now 30, divorced, and have three children. We are totally dependent on welfare.

If I went to work I could earn $1.90 an hour as a motel maid, but here is my dilemma: I attend (but am not enrolled in) the poetry workshops of two colleges in my city. My teachers say I am very talented, and they urge me to stay with writing poetry. I have been published in some of the best literary magazines in the nation, and have had some very encouraging letters from editors, although they haven't paid me anything. My ambition is to become a major poet. I have spent two years in therapy, but I can't analyze away my need to write poetry.

Now I must make a choice between my children's physical needs and what my family calls my "selfish ambition." I welcome your advice.

POOR, SCORNED AND TORN
DEAR P., S. AND T.: Since you are able to work I think you should get off welfare. Thus far your poetry has netted you only non-edible letters of encouragement. I advise you to get a paying job, and write poetry in your spare time.

DEAR ABBY: I am interested in the strange case of the woman who went to confession and was upset by the priest who confessed his own troubles to her. Even stranger was your advice that the priest should see a doctor!

So here's the situation: If a woman confesses to a priest, she's religious, but if a priest confesses to a woman, he's sick.

My God, Abby, if that's the best you can do, you should quit. Why didn't you simply advise the poor fellow to go to another priest and confess?

INFIDEL

DEAR INF: The priest didn't merely "confess" to a woman—he broke down and wept—and to a parishioner who had come to HIM to confess yet. (This is healthy?)

True, another priest might have relieved the first priest's guilt by hearing his confession, "but only a doctor can diagnose and treat one for an emotional disturbance, which appears to be the case here."

DEAR ABBY: I am a sailor who will be going on leave soon. I expect to be met at the airport by my parents and my girl friend. My problem is I don't know whose arms I should go to first. It will be a year and six months since I have been home.

You always say put your mate above all others because your mate will be your lifelong companion. Well, I am not married yet, but I think my girl friend will expect me to go to her first, and my mother will expect me to go to her first.

I love them both very much and wouldn't want to hurt either one, so whose arms do you recommend?

SAILOR

DEAR SAILOR: Since you aren't married yet, I'd suggest you greet your mother first. But once you take a mate, mate, she comes first.

Boys State Delegates Hear Gilligan

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP) — Buckeye Boys State delegates were told Monday night that the failure of some politicians to tell the truth has caused serious erosion of public confidence in government.

Gov. John Gilligan said "many politicians feel that telling the people the simple truth will not get them elected, so they dress up the truth a little, and they paint it in bright, appealing colors."

"But the people are not fools, and sooner or later they see through this nonsense and those who utter it," Gilligan told the high school seniors participating in the American Legion-sponsored citizenship school.

The governor said the decline in public confidence poses the biggest threat to the American form of government.

He urged the boys to take the lead in demanding that public officials deal openly and honestly with the people.

It will not be easy to restore public confidence in government, Gilligan said, "but neither do I think it is impossible, and the presence of all of you here at Buckeye Boys State proves it."

Gilligan spoke at an assembly that followed a busy day of activity on the Ashland College campus during which delegates put mythical state and local governments into operation.

Meat Prices Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ways to lower meat prices will be probed Monday at a White House meeting of everybody in the industry from cattlemen to supermarkets, White House economics adviser Kenneth Rush said Friday.

Meat prices are too high, Rush said, and the meeting is being called to explore ways to lower them.

Meat packers and retailers are enjoying the highest profit margins on meat in a long time and they appear to be "higher than they should be," Rush said.

On the other hand, he said, feedlot operators are in serious financial difficulty because they are losing as much as $100 to $200 a head in a squeeze between high grain prices and the low prices they receive.

The answer, Rush said, is not to reimpose quotas on meat imports, as advocated by many in the cattle industry.

He said retailers and packers need to decrease prices to increase sales and Monday's meeting will focus in part on ways to do this.

Four miles isn't very far to go, unless you're drilling a hole.

Four miles is just about how deep we're drilling into the earth now, in the Appalachian area, to find more natural gas. That's about three miles deeper than most wells in the area have ever gone. And the deeper the well, the more it costs—as much as $1 million a mile.

Deep-drilling is a high-risk, high-cost venture. But Columbia is doing it to seek more clean-burning natural gas that will help solve the energy crisis. And, when you consider the alternative of less energy, we think you'll agree that the price is not too high.

Columbia Gas is investing millions of dollars to develop many new sources of gas—in the Arctic, under the sea, overseas, from petroleum liquids, from coal—as well as exploring four miles deep right here in our backyard.

COLUMBIA GAS is doing something about the energy crisis.

Reds Slaughter Montreal

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Dan Driessen of the Cincinnati Reds has bad news for believers in the sophomore jinx. "I've never given it any thought," said the "baby" of the Reds, a rookie-of-the-year candidate last year when he hit .301. The 23-year-old South Carolinian is confident he's on his way to more. And his aching back promises to be a pain in the neck for opposing National League pitchers. Driessen drove in three runs with three hits Monday night to spearhead a lusty Cincinnati attack that swamped the Montreal Expos 12-3 Monday night before a national television audience. Driessen's soft liners were sprayed in three different directions. "That's the kind of hitter I am," said the quiet lefthanded third baseman. "When I'm in the groove, nobody can set his defenses against me." "If I can stay consistent, I can easily hit .300 every year. I just want to do it again... for the next 19 years," he said. He limped to first base each time due to a sore back he said came from a day of answering fan mail. Driessen, Pete Rose and Cesar Geronimo each pounded out three hits as the Reds closed to within six games of the frontrunning Los Angeles Dodgers, 7-3 losers to Pittsburgh. Fred Norman made his return from the injured list a successful one, with a route-going performance. A pulled rib muscle had kept him out of action for 15 days. "I felt it bother me in the third, so I just shortened up my delivery. It was nice to see those runs going up there in fours," said the stubby lefty, now 6-5. The Reds landed hard on Expos starter Steve Rogers, now 7-7 and the victim of his fifth straight loss. Norman's support came in clusters. A four-run first left Rogers reeling, but the Expos countered with two in the second. Then came the deluge. The Reds stamped in four runs in the fourth and four more in the fifth. Exit Rogers. Tony Perez matched Driessen's RBI total with three, thanks to a dropped two-out pop fly by Montreal catcher Barry Foote. Perez lined the next pitch to the left-centerfield fence for a three-run double. The victory was the Reds' 16th in their last 22 outings and brought talk of momentum. "I don't know why, but we seem to start playing when the weather gets nice," said Manager George "Sparky" Anderson. "It's going to be a tight race," he offered for the umpteenth time. The Dodgers, meanwhile, bowed to the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-3 and have dropped five of their last seven. Their lead in the loss column is only four games. Elsewhere, the Philadelphia Phillies shaded the Houston Astros 7-5, the San Francisco Giants blanked the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0, the Atlanta Braves whipped the New York Mets 8-1 and the San Diego Padres edged the Chicago Cubs 7-5 in 13 innings. Anderson, predicting a tight race, said, "I would like to get within three-four games by AllStar time. We play them four the first week of July and we have to win three to get that close..." Dan Driessen and Tony Perez drove in three runs each and the Reds used a 16-hit attack and a trio of four-run uprisings to batter the Expos and Steve Rogers. Pirates 7, Dodgers 3 The Dodgers had their problems seeing and fielding the ball in Pittsburgh and six of the Pirates' run were unearned. "We made enough mistakes to lose two or three games," said Manager Walter Alston. "I was kind of pleased with Don Sutton's pitching, but we kicked the ball around a lot so he didn't have much support." Phillies 7, Astros 5 Pinch hitter Tony Taylor slammed his first home run of the season, a tie-breaking two-run shot with two out in the eighth inning off Claude Osteen after a single by Bob Boone, who singled in a pair of runs in the second. Giants 3, Cardinals 0 Gary Thomasson drove in two runs with singles and Jim Barr, a refugee from the bullpen, scattered eight hits for his second straight shutout. Braves 8, Mets 1 Darrell Evans drove in two runs with a homer and a single and Rowland Office cracked a two-run double while Phil Niekro held the slump-ridden Mets to four hits, two in the first inning. Padres 7, Cubs 5 Dave Winfield, who homered in the sixth inning, drove in the tie-breaking run with a single in the 13th.

Youth Baseball League Action

MOSQUITO LEAGUE Circleville Mfg. 7, Mac's 2 Tommy Tomlinson continued his aggressive play at the plate for the winners, poling a homerun and double. But it was his pitching that helped the unbeaten winners. He combined with Ralph Jones to limit Mac's to three hits. They fanned 17 batters. Randy Huffer ripped two doubles for the winners and Jones, Jeff McGowan, and Erin McConnell had two-baggers. James Bevins and Rod Lewis hurled strong balls for the losers, allowing nine hits and fanning 11. John Moore poled a triple for Mac's and Greg Greeno and Chris Lindsey had doubles. Circle Auto 15, PPG 8 Circle Auto used a nine-run third inning and 21-hit attack to rip PPG in a battle of 0-2 teams. Brad Miller cracked a homer for the winners, Brian Oberly had a triple and two doubles, Chuck Angus and Brad Cline had two doubles each, and Tim Chelickowski, Tim Campbell, and Todd Lutz had doubles. PPGers with two hits each were Jerry Uhl, Tom Mogan, Jim Lewis, and Chris Plescia.

who fanned nine batters. The Savings Bank, although limited to just two hits by Jeff Strawser and David Happeney, struck its biggest blow with 14 walks. They fanned seven times. Beeman Leasure tagged a double for the winners and Jeff Strawser slugged a triple for Scioto Building. BABE RUTH LEAGUE Elsea's 8, Kiwanis 5 Elsea's extended its unbeaten record to four games against winless Kiwanis. Biff Bumgarner was the winner, walking six and fanning 12. He allowed five hits. Elsea's could get only six hits off losing pitcher George Moore, who walked four and fanned six. Bob Sargent tagged two singles for the winners while Scott Barthelmas collected two singles for the losers. TRI-COUNTY MINORS Washington 9, Stoutsville 1 Richard Buskirk tossed another strong game to keep Washington unbeaten in four starts. He allowed singles to Fausnaugh and Hartley in the first frame to account for the lone Stoutsville run and surrendered a fifth inning single to Compton for the only hits. He fanned four and issued three walks. Victim of the 14-hit Washington attack was Dennis Compton, who fanned six and walked four. Tom Schwin blasted a grand slam homerun and a single, Alan Young collected two doubles, and David Huffman had four singles. Laurelvile 17, Saltcreek 8 Jamie Beglin and Brian Johnson combined to give Laurelvile its first win. Beglin allowed five hits and four walks while fanning five. Johnson, who was touched for 12 hits, walked two and fanned a batter. Johnson tagged a homerun for the winners. Saltcreek used three pitchers to limit the winners to six hits.

Perry Stops White Sox, 4-3

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer "You want to give the people a reason for coming out to the ball park," says Gaylord Perry. The unflappable Cleveland pitcher has given the fans 12 good reasons this year—12 straight victories. "The pressure keeps getting greater because they expect you to win," Perry said after living up to expectations Monday night with a 4-3 triumph over the Chicago White Sox. Perry, who claims he has discarded his famed spitter, has not lost since Opening Day. That type of superlative pitching leads admirers to superlatives. "Perry is the best right-hander in the American League," noted Chicago Manager Chuck Tanner. "He's great." Perry wasn't especially overpowering Monday night, but was around at the end to see Jack Brohamer deliver the winning hit in the ninth. It scored Frank Duffy from second. In the other American League games, the Baltimore Orioles blanked the Minnesota Twins 1-0; the Detroit Tigers trimmed the Texas Rangers 6-4; the New York Yankees turned back the California Angels 5-1 and the Oakland A's beat the Boston Red Sox 3-2. Orioles 1, Twins 0 Baltimore's Mike Cuellar notched his ninth straight victory, winning a five-hit, 1-0 decision over Minnesota on a sixth-inning home run by Bobby Grich. Tigers 6, Rangers 4 Al Kalline belted a two-run homer with two out in the 10th inning, giving Detroit its victory over Texas. Kalline's fourth homer of the baseball season followed a single by Mickey Stanley and provided reliever John Hiller, 7-4, with the victory. Yanks 5, Angels 1 Lou Piniella crashed a two-run homer in the seventh inning and Fred Stanley laced a two-run single in the eighth, leading New York over California. struggling Angels. The Yankees have won seven of nine. A's 3, Red Sox 2 Gene Tenace scored from third base in the ninth inning when Boston catcher Carlton Fisk threw wildly on a pickoff attempt at first, giving Oakland its victory over the Red Sox.

All-Star Vote Topped By Aaron

NEW YORK (AP) — Outfielder Hank Aaron, Atlanta's home run champ, leads the voting for the 1974 National League All-Star team with the ballots of about one million baseball fans counted. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said Monday Aaron had 484,972 votes in the first two weeks of balloting for the July 23 game in Pittsburgh. Cincinnati and Los Angeles players became the top NL contenders for all seven other positions in the voting, which ends July 7. Cincinnati's Johnny Bench topped catchers with 429,447 votes and ranked second to Aaron in the over-all NL totals. Outfielders Pete Rose of Cincinnati was second with 288,854 votes and Jimmy Wynn of Los Angeles third with 224,490. Neither Rose nor Wynn were among last week's top vote-getters. The other Cincinnati leaders were second baseman Joe Morgan with 251,270 votes and first baseman Tony Perez with 162,133. Other Los Angeles contenders were third baseman Ron Cey with 219,978 votes and shortstop Bill Russell with 183,952. Manager Yogi Berra of New York will choose the pitchers.

Today's Tilts

Rawlins Blanks CW In 10 Frames

Greg Justus scamped home with the only run of the game in the bottom of the tenth inning as Logas Elm downed Canal Winchester 1-0 behind the five-hit pitching of Steve Rawlins. Rawlins locked with Winchester's Jeff Black during the tilt. Both men allowed five hits. Rawlins fanned 18 batters and walked seven, while Black blanked 11 and walked eight. In the bottom of the tenth inning, Justus singled and stole second to set-up his scoring dash. He moved to third on a fielder's choice and scamped home on a hard grounder to short by Scott Pontius. Jeff Reichelderfer tagged two doubles for the Braves, and Randy Pontius and Chuck Cave cracked singles. The Braves, 3-1 in Mid-State Summer League play, will journey to Fairfield Union tonight.

Reds Slaughter Montreal

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Dan Driessen of the Cincinnati Reds has bad news for believers in the sophomore jinx. "I've never given it any thought," said the "baby" of the Reds, a rookie-of-the-year candidate last year when he hit .301. The 23-year-old South Carolinian is confident he's on his way to more. And his aching back promises to be a pain in the neck for opposing National League pitchers. Driessen drove in three runs with three hits Monday night to spearhead a lusty Cincinnati attack that swamped the Montreal Expos 12-3 Monday night before a national television audience. Driessen's soft liners were sprayed in three different directions. "That's the kind of hitter I am," said the quiet lefthanded third baseman. "When I'm in the groove, nobody can set his defenses against me." "If I can stay consistent, I can easily hit .300 every year. I just want to do it again... for the next 19 years," he said. He limped to first base each time due to a sore back he said came from a day of answering fan mail. Driessen, Pete Rose and Cesar Geronimo each pounded out three hits as the Reds closed to within six games of the frontrunning Los Angeles Dodgers, 7-3 losers to Pittsburgh. Fred Norman made his return from the injured list a successful one, with a route-going performance. A pulled rib muscle had kept him out of action for 15 days. "I felt it bother me in the third, so I just shortened up my delivery. It was nice to see those runs going up there in four," said the stubby lefty, now 6-5. The Reds landed hard on Expos starter Steve Rogers, now 7-7 and the victim of his fifth straight loss. Norman's support came in clusters. A four-run first left Rogers reeling, but the Expos countered with two in the second. Then came the deluge. The Reds stamped in four runs in the fourth and four more in the fifth. Exit Rogers. Tony Perez matched Driessen's RBI total with three, thanks to a dropped two-out pop fly by Montreal catcher Barry Foote. Perez lined the next pitch to the left-centerfield fence for a three-run double. The victory was the Reds' 16th in their last 22 outings and brought talk of momentum. "I don't know why, but we seem to start playing when the weather gets nice," said Manager George "Sparky" Anderson. "It's going to be a tight race," he offered for the umpteenth time. The Dodgers, meanwhile, bowed to the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-3 and have dropped five of their last seven. Their lead in the loss column is only four games. Elsewhere, the Philadelphia Phillies shaded the Houston Astros 7-5, the San Francisco Giants blanked the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0, the Atlanta Braves whipped the New York Mets 8-1 and the San Diego Padres edged the Chicago Cubs 7-5 in 13 innings. Anderson, predicting a tight race, said, "I would like to get within three-four games by AllStar time. We play them four the first week of July and we have to win three to get that close..." Dan Driessen and Tony Perez drove in three runs each and the Reds used a 16-hit attack and a trio of four-run uprisings to batter the Expos and Steve Rogers. Pirates 7, Dodgers 3 The Dodgers had their problems seeing and fielding the ball in Pittsburgh and six of the Pirates' run were unearned. "We made enough mistakes to lose two or three games," said Manager Walter Alston. "I was kind of pleased with Don Sutton's pitching, but we kicked the ball around a lot so he didn't have much support." Phillies 7, Astros 5 Pinch hitter Tony Taylor slammed his first home run of the season, a tie-breaking two-run shot with two out in the eighth inning off Claude Osteen after a single by Bob Boone, who singled in a pair of runs in the second. Giants 3, Cardinals 0 Gary Thomasson drove in two runs with singles and Jim Barr, a refugee from the bullpen, scattered eight hits for his second straight shutout. Braves 8, Mets 1 Darrell Evans drove in two runs with a homer and a single and Rowland Office cracked a two-run double while Phil Niekro held the slump-ridden Mets to four hits, two in the first inning. Padres 7, Cubs 5 Dave Winfield, who homered in the sixth inning, drove in the tie-breaking run with a single in the 13th.

Youth Baseball League Action

MOSQUITO LEAGUE Circleville Mfg. 7, Mac's 2 Tommy Tomlinson continued his aggressive play at the plate for the winners, poling a homerun and double. But it was his pitching that helped the unbeaten winners. He combined with Ralph Jones to limit Mac's to three hits. They fanned 17 batters. Randy Huffer ripped two doubles for the winners and Jones, Jeff McGowan, and Erin McConnell had two-baggers. James Bevins and Rod Lewis hurled strong balls for the losers, allowing nine hits and fanning 11. John Moore poled a triple for Mac's and Greg Greeno and Chris Lindsey had doubles. Circle Auto 15, PPG 8 Circle Auto used a nine-run third inning and 21-hit attack to rip PPG in a battle of 0-2 teams. BPO Elks 2, Coca-Cola 1 Pitcher Brian Morrison scampered across home plate with the winning run in bottom of the eighth inning to keep the Elks' record clean at 4-0. Morrison led off the inning with a double and Mark Agin Drove him home with a single. Morrison, who allowed two hits in a five-inning pitching role, walked a batter and fanned seven. He shared mound duties with Brian Detty who walked two, fanned one, and allowed five hits in three innings. Teddy Robinson and Jack Heeter took the loss, allowing only five hits. They walked two batters and fanned nine. Jerry Ogan tagged a double for the winners and Robinson and Mike Lutz and two-baggers for Coke. LITTLE LEAGUE MINOR IOOF 9, Ward's Market 8 A five-run final inning rally by Ward's Market was not enough as IOOF hung on for its first win of the season. Robert Conkel, Earl Miller, and Bobby Carroll ripped doubles for the winners. Ray Patterson tagged a triple and Jeff Jenkins had a double for Ward's. First National 10, Circleville Oil 8 The Bankers were slicker than the Oilmen in the battle for the top spot in the league. Barry Sealock and Ty Dean combined for the win, allowing nine hits, and three walks, while fanning 10 batters. William Uhl and John Adams were charged with the loss, although they also allowed nine hits. They fanned seven batters and walked six. Jim Pache and David Justus tagged triples for the winners and Andy Hedges and Barry Sealock collected doubles. For Circleville Oil, John Adams, Rick Martin, and Bill Mumaw had two-base hits. PONY LEAGUE Savings Bank 11, Scioto Building and Loan 7 Savings won the battle of the bankers last night behind the four-hit pitching of Skip Greeno and John Harr, who fanned nine batters. The Savings Bank, although limited to just two hits by Jeff Strawser and David Happeney, struck its biggest blow with 14 walks. They fanned seven times. Beeman Leasure tagged a double for the winners and Jeff Strawser slugged a triple for Scioto Building. BABE RUTH LEAGUE Elsea's 8, Kiwanis 5 Elsea's extended its unbeaten record to four games against winless Kiwanis. Biff Bumgarner was the winner, walking six and fanning 12. He allowed five hits. Elsea's could get only six hits off losing pitcher George Moore, who walked four and fanned six. Bob Sargent tagged two singles for the winners while Scott Barthelmas collected two singles for the losers. TRI-COUNTY MINORS Washington 9, Stoutsville 1 Richard Buskirk tossed another strong game to keep Washington unbeaten in four starts. He allowed singles to Fausnaugh and Hartley in the first frame to account for the lone Stoutsville run and surrendered a fifth inning single to Compton for the only hits. He fanned four and issued three walks. Victim of the 14-hit Washington attack was Dennis Compton, who fanned six and walked four. Tom Schwin blasted a grand slam homerun and a single, Alan Young collected two doubles, and David Huffman had four singles. Laurelville 17, Saltcreek 8 Jamie Beglin and Brian Johnson combined to give Laurelville its first win. Beglin allowed five hits and four walks while fanning five. Johnson, who was touched for 12 hits, walked two and fanned a batter. Johnson tagged a homerun for the winners. Saltcreek used three pitchers to limit the winners to six hits.

Perry Stops White Sox, 4-3

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer "You want to give the people a reason for coming out to the ball park," says Gaylord Perry. The unflappable Cleveland pitcher has given the fans 12 good reasons this year—12 straight victories. "The pressure keeps getting greater because they expect you to win," Perry said after living up to expectations Monday night with a 4-3 triumph over the Chicago White Sox. Perry, who claims he has discarded his famed spitter, has not lost since Opening Day. That type of superlative pitching leads admirers to superlatives. "Perry is the best right-hander in the American League," noted Chicago Manager Chuck Tanner. "He's great." Perry wasn't especially overpowering Monday night, but was around at the end to see Jack Brohamer deliver the winning hit in the ninth. It scored Frank Duffy from second. In the other American League games, the Baltimore Orioles blanked the Minnesota Twins 1-0; the Detroit Tigers trummed the Texas Rangers 6-4; the New York Yankees turned back the California Angels 5-1 and the Oakland A's beat the Boston Red Sox 3-2. Orioles 1, Twins 0 Baltimore's Mike Cuellar notched his ninth straight victory, winning a five-hit, 1-0 decision over Minnesota on a sixth-inning home run by Bobby Grich. Tigers 6, Rangers 4 Al Kaline belted a two-run homer with two out in the 10th inning, giving Detroit its victory over Texas. Kaline's fourth homer of the baseball season followed a single by Mickey Stanley and provided reliever John Hiller, 7-4, with the victory. Yanks 5, Angels 1 Lou Piniella crashed a two-run homer in the seventh inning and Fred Stanley laced a two-run single in the eighth, leading New York over California. struggling Angels. The Yankees have won seven of nine. A's 3, Red Sox 2 Gene Tenace scored from third base in the ninth inning when Boston catcher Carlton Fisk threw wildly on a pickoff attempt at first, giving Oakland its victory over the Red Sox.

Rawlins Blanks CW in 10 Frames

Greg Justus scampered home with the only run of the game in the bottom of the tenth inning as Logas Elm downed Canal Winchester 1-0 behind the five-hit pitching of Steve Rawlins. Rawlins locked with Winchester's Jeff Black during the tilt. Both men allowed five hits. Rawlins fanned 18 batters and walked seven, while Black blanked 11 and walked eight. In the bottom of the tenth inning, Justus singled and stole second to set-up his scoring dash. He moved to third on a fielder's choice and scampered home on a hard grounder to short by Scott Pontius. Jeff Reichelderfer tagged two doubles for the Braves, and Randy Pontius and Chuck Cave cracked singles. The Braves, 3-1 in Mid-State Summer League play, will journey to Fairfield Union tonight.

It Was Hail At Atomic Race

Atomic Speedway's regular races Saturday night were not only rained out but hit hard by hail, making the third consecutive week and the fifth time this season that races have been cancelled due to weather. Atomic will try to continue this Saturday night, June 22, with their 1974 Auto-Quad, featuring four classes: super sprints, midgets, hobby stocks, and late models.

All-Star Vote Topped By Aaron

NEW YORK (AP) — Outfielder Hank Aaron, Atlanta's home run champ, leads the voting for the 1974 National League All-Star team with the ballots of about one million baseball fans counted. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said Monday Aaron had 484,972 votes in the first two weeks of balloting for the July 23 game in Pittsburgh. Cincinnati and Los Angeles players became the top NL contenders for all seven other positions in the voting, which ends July 7. Cincinnati's Johnny Bench topped catchers with 429,447 votes and ranked second to Aaron in the over-all NL totals. Outfielders Pete Rose of Cincinnati was second with 288,854 votes and Jimmy Wynn of Los Angeles third with 224,490. Neither Rose nor Wynn were among last week's top vote-getters. The other Cincinnati leaders were second baseman Joe Morgan with 251,270 votes and first baseman Tony Perez with 162,133. Other Los Angeles contenders were third baseman Ron Cey with 219,978 votes and shortstop Bill Russell with 183,952. Manager Yogi Berra of New York will choose the pitchers.

Big Joe Frazier Defeats Quarry With TKO In 5th

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier came out smokin' Monday night, blasted his way back into the heavyweight title picture and cast a giant shadow over Jerry Quarry's dream of ever wearing that coveted crown.

"I wanted the public to see that I'm going back to being the old Smokin' Joe," said Frazier, moments after stopping Quarry at 1:37 of the fifth round of their scheduled 12-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

"All the things they said I couldn't do, I did tonight," Frazier said. "I really felt good— just like my old self."

It was the old Smokin' Joe, the aggressive battler with the devastating left hook, but with some new wrinkles—an effective right hand, some pesky jabs, a smothering defense. And he proved that the new Quarry was little more dangerous than the old one, whom Frazier beat in seven rounds five years ago.

A cut above the left eye, opened by Frazier early in the fifth round, led referee Joe Louis—the former king of the heavyweights—to stop the fight. But even without the cut, there was little doubt the fight belonged to Frazier.

"Everything I worked so hard for just didn't work," said a disconsolate Quarry, who needed 15 stitches to close the cut above his left eye and three stitches to bind a smaller wound above his right eye. "I just don't have any strength, nothing."

"I had a very long elusive dream," Quarry said of his quest for the heavyweight title. "I'm not sure I can make it now."

Quarry had six straight knockouts since ending a brief retirement 18 months ago. But Frazier was another matter, thanks largely to the ex-champ's manager, Eddie Futch, who designed the varied attack Frazier used so effectively.

"I've got to give all the credit to Eddie," said Frazier, who weighed 212 pounds to 197½ for Quarry. "He brought what was in me out again."

"We worked on Joe's right hand, because I thought we would catch Jerry off-guard," said Futch, explaining the presence of the unexpectedly effective right in the Frazier arsenal. "We knew Jerry would be looking for a left-hook attack."

The victory provided for Frazier a decisive answer to critics who claimed that his hardfought victory in the first Muhammad Ali fight had taken too much out of him. Those critics pointed to his second-round knockout at the hands of George Foreman in Jamaica Jan. 22, 1973, and his loss to Ali one year later, as evidence of his deterioration.

But against Quarry, Frazier showed he still had that powerful left hook, plus something extra.

Hank Aaron Hides Behind Fake Names

NEW YORK (AP) — If you want to chat with Hank Aaron and the home-run king's phone doesn't answer, ask the operator to connect you with "A. Dieffelfberger."

That's just one of the pseudonyms the Atlanta Braves' star slugger uses to protect the privacy that has become a fragile commodity since he replaced the late Babe Ruth as the greatest home-run hitter of all time.

Aaron currently is the most sought-after athlete in the world—more than Joe Namath, more than Jack Nicklaus, more than O.J. Simpson.

"The pressure has let down some but still is pretty heavy," Aaron said on his first visit to New York since he set the alltime record with his 715th home run in Atlanta on April 8.

"Understand, I appreciate all this attention, but I am 40 years old and I am still trying to play baseball. I have to have a certain amount of rest. I can't do everything people want me to do."

For instance, today is "Hank Aaron Day" in New York. The Atlanta outfielder had to be up early in his best bib-and-tucker, rush down to City Hall, ride a bubble car in a motorcade to Harlem and receive the city's highest award—the Gold Medal—from Mayor Abe Beame.

It has been the same at Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago—wherever the great man has played. Demands on his time have grown to tremendous proportions.

Tough To Pick Winner In American Golf Classic

AKRON—If the man who is the host professional knows anything about it, picking a winner in this week's American Golf Classic will be tougher than ever.

Firestone C.C. pro Bobby Nichols, who will be competing in his 13th Classic, won't even hazard a guess as to who the winner might be come Sunday evening.

"More than ever this year, almost everyone in the field has a chance of winning," Nichols said. "When you have a field as strong as this one, there is no way of knowing who will wind up on top."

"I've been playing fairly well, and I'm not counting myself out of it, even though it's always extremely hard to play well before your hometown friends," he admits.

"You certainly can't count out the younger players any more, no matter what the event. The young guys treat the rest of us like, what's his name . . . Rodney Dangerfield. They give us no respect," the former PGA champion chuckled.

The elite field going to the tee Thursday includes a number of such younger players — like Tom Watson, John Mahaffey, Tom Kite, Jim Simons and Artie McNickle.

"I remember what it was like when I played here the first time, I think it was in 1961. I'd never seen the course, but I had heard how tough it was," Nichols recalls.

"The big difference between 1961 and now is, really, the experience and maturity I've gained. I still get too charged up, especially here because I want to play well so much. But after 14 years I ought to be able to control my emotions well enough to have a good tournament," he said.

Nichols said that he hasn't made any significant changes in his game over the years.

"I've done some experimenting, of course, but I haven't had to go through a big change. I guess I'm more of a swinger than a hitter, and that has probably helped a lot," he said.

Nichols, off to one of his best starts ever on the tour, is currently 13th on the 1974 money list with over $68,000. And he won the San Diego Open in January.

"It has been a funny year, really. I had never played well until the summer months. This year I've either played exceptionally well, or not very well at all. It seems that I'm either in contention or completely out of it. I've missed about three or four cuts so far, and that is a little unusual."

Although Bobby has never won the Classic, he came extremely close in 1969, carding a 272 — only to finish four shots behind Ray Floyd, who destroyed records left and right in winning. The 272 remains the second-lowest score ever for the event.

He was eighth in 1963, tied for sixth in 1967 and tied for 12th in 1972 as well.

"On a real championship course, like this one, no one will be sneaking into first place. It's going to take four solid rounds," he said.

"And you won't find any unknowns winning here, either. There aren't any in the field!"

The Classic offers a purse of $170,000 this year, with $34,000 earmarked for the winner.

Defending champion Bruce Crampton and such stars as Arnold Palmer, Tom Weiskopf, Lanny Wadkins, Gay Brewer and many others will be in the chase, which begins on Thursday.

The 72-hole event will continue through Sunday, with CBS providing national television coverage from 5 to 6 p.m. on Saturday, and from 4 to 5:30, or until conclusion, on Sunday.

Tickets will be available at the gate, throughout the week, and there is plenty of tournament parking.

Women Set Superstar Competition

HOUSTON (AP) — Women athletes one-upped the men Monday with the announcement of a women's superstar competition that will hand out more prize money than the male competition.

The competition will feature total prize money of $150,000, the event's directors announced.

It is patterned after a similar event held yearly in Florida which offered $138,000 to male competitors.

The winner in the championships, to be staged at the Astrodome, will pocket $50,000. Soccer star Kyle Rote Jr. won this year's men's event and took home $53,000.

In the Astrodome last year Billie Jean King won $100,000 by beating tennis hustler Bobby Riggs in a nationally-televised match.

Unlike the men's Superstars, which stretches over a month, the women's event will be held in one weekend, probably that of Dec. 21.

Accepting invitations so far are Mrs. King, golfer Janie Blalock, bowler Paula Sperber, sprinter Wyomia Tyus, cyclist Sheila Young, softball pitcher Joan Joyce, javelin thrower Kathy Schmidt, gymnast Cathy Rigby, motocyclist Debbie Wheeler, skier Suzy Chaffee and jockey Robyn Smith.

Big Joe Frazier Defeats Quarry With TKO In 5th

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier came out smokin' Monday night, blasted his way back into the heavyweight title picture and cast a giant shadow over Jerry Quarry's dream of ever wearing that coveted crown.

"I wanted the public to see that I'm going back to being the old Smokin' Joe," said Frazier, moments after stopping Quarry at 1:37 of the fifth round of their scheduled 12-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

"All the things they said I couldn't do, I did tonight," Frazier said. "I really felt good—just like my old self."

It was the old Smokin' Joe, the aggressive battler with the devastating left hook, but with some new wrinkles—an effective right hand, some pesky jabs, a smothering defense. And he proved that the new Quarry was little more dangerous than the old one, whom Frazier beat in seven rounds five years ago.

A cut above the left eye, opened by Frazier early in the fifth round, led referee Joe Louis—the former king of the heavyweights—to stop the fight. But even without the cut, there was little doubt the fight belonged to Frazier.

"Everything I worked so hard for just didn't work," said a disconsolate Quarry, who needed 15 stitches to close the cut above his left eye and three stitches to bind a smaller wound above his right eye. "I just don't have any strength, nothing."

"I had a very long elusive dream," Quarry said of his quest for the heavyweight title. "I'm not sure I can make it now."

Quarry had six straight knockouts since ending a brief retirement 18 months ago. But Frazier was another matter, thanks largely to the ex-champ's manager, Eddie Futch, who designed the varied attack Frazier used so effectively.

"I've got to give all the credit to Eddie," said Frazier, who weighed 212 pounds to 197½ for Quarry. "He brought what was in me out again."

"We worked on Joe's right hand,

because I thought we would catch Jerry off-guard," said Futch, explaining the presence of the unexpectedly effective right in the Frazier arsenal. "We knew Jerry would be looking for a left-hook attack."

The victory provided for Frazier a decisive answer to critics who claimed that his hardfought victory in the first Muhammad Ali fight had taken too much out of him. Those critics pointed to his second-round knockout at the hands of George Foreman in Jamaica Jan. 22, 1973, and his loss to Ali one year later, as evidence of his deterioration.

But against Quarry, Frazier showed he still had that powerful left hook, plus something extra.

Hank Aaron Hides Behind Fake Names

NEW YORK (AP) — If you want to chat with Hank Aaron and the home-run king's phone doesn't answer, ask the operator to connect you with "A. Dieffelfberger."

That's just one of the pseudonyms the Atlanta Braves' star slugger uses to protect the privacy that has become a fragile commodity since he replaced the late Babe Ruth as the greatest home-run hitter of all time.

Aaron currently is the most sought-after athlete in the world—more than Joe Namath, more than Jack Nicklaus, more than O.J. Simpson.

"The pressure has let down some but still is pretty heavy," Aaron said on his first visit to New York since he set the alltime record with his 715th home run in Atlanta on April 8.

"Understand, I appreciate all this attention, but I am 40 years old and I am still trying to play baseball. I have to have a certain amount of rest. I can't do everything people want me to do."

For instance, today is "Hank Aaron Day" in New York. The Atlanta outfielder had to be up early in his best bib-and-tucker, rush down to City Hall, ride a bubble car in a motorcade to Harlem and receive the city's highest award—the Gold Medal—from Mayor Abe Beame.

It has been the same at Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago—wherever the great man has played. Demands on his time have grown to tremendous proportions.

Tough To Pick Winner In American Golf Classic

AKRON—If the man who is the host professional knows anything about it, picking a winner in this week's American Golf Classic will be tougher than ever.

Firestone C.C. pro Bobby Nichols, who will be competing in his 13th Classic, won't even hazard a guess as to who the winner might be come Sunday evening.

"More than ever this year, almost everyone in the field has a chance of winning," Nichols said. "When you have a field as strong as this one, there is no way of knowing who will wind up on top."

"I've been playing fairly well, and I'm not counting myself out of it, even though it's always extremely hard to play well before your hometown friends," he admits.

"You certainly can't count out the younger players any more, no matter what the event. The young guys treat the rest of us like, what's his name . . . Rodney Dangerfield. They give us no respect," the former PGA champion chuckled.

The elite field going to the tee Thursday includes a number of such younger players — like Tom Watson, John Mahaffey, Tom Kite, Jim Simons and Artie McNickle.

"I remember what it was like when I played here the first time, I think it was in 1961. I'd never seen the course, but I had heard how tough it was," Nichols recalls.

"The big difference between 1961 and now is, really, the experience and maturity I've gained. I still get too charged up, especially here because I want to play well so much. But after 14 years I ought to be able to control my emotions well enough to have a good tournament," he said.

Nichols said that he hasn't made any significant changes in his game over the years.

"I've done some experimenting, of course, but I haven't had to go through a big change. I guess I'm more of a swinger than a hitter, and that has probably helped a lot," he said.

Nichols, off to one of his best starts ever on the tour, is currently 13th on the 1974 money list with over $68,000. And he won the San Diego Open in January.

"It has been a funny year, really. I had never played well until the summer months. This year I've either played exceptionally well, or not very well at all. It seems that I'm either in contention or completely out of it. I've missed about three or four cuts so far, and that is a little unusual."

Although Bobby has never won the Classic, he came extremely close in 1969, carding a 272 — only to finish four shots behind Ray Floyd, who destroyed records left and right in winning. The 272 remains the second-lowest score ever for the event.

He was eighth in 1963, tied for sixth in 1967 and tied for 12th in 1972 as well.

"On a real championship course, like this one, no one will be sneaking into first place. It's going to take four solid rounds," he said.

"And you won't find any unknowns winning here, either. There aren't any in the field!"

The Classic offers a purse of $170,000 this year, with $34,000 earmarked for the winner.

Defending champion Bruce Crampton and such stars as Arnold Palmer, Tom Weiskopf, Lanny Wadkins, Gay Brewer and many others will be in the chase, which begins on Thursday.

The 72-hole event will continue through Sunday, with CBS providing national television coverage from 5 to 6 p.m. on Saturday, and from 4 to 5:30, or until conclusion, on Sunday.

Tickets will be available at the gate, throughout the week, and there is plenty of tournament parking.

Women Set Superstar Competition

HOUSTON (AP) — Women athletes one-upped the men Monday with the announcement of a women's superstar competition that will hand out more prize money than the male competition.

The competition will feature total prize money of $150,000, the event's directors announced.

It is patterned after a similar event held yearly in Florida which offered $138,000 to male competitors.

The winner in the championships, to be staged at the Astrodome, will pocket $50,000. Soccer star Kyle Rote Jr. won this year's men's event and took home $53,000.

In the Astrodome last year Billie Jean King won $100,000 by beating tennis hustler Bobby Riggs in a nationally-televised match.

Unlike the men's Superstars, which stretches over a month, the women's event will be held in one weekend, probably that of Dec. 21.

Accepting invitations so far are Mrs. King, golfer Janie Blalock, bowler Paula Sperber, sprinter Wyomia Tyus, cyclist Sheila Young, softball pitcher Joan Joyce, javelin thrower Kathy Schmidt, gymnast Cathy Rigby, motorcyclist Debbie Wheeler, skier Suzy Chaffee and jockey Robyn Smith.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Chance could very well step in and unexpectedly hand you, on the proverbial silver platter, what all your striving couldn't attain. A fine day!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): It would be wise to keep plans flexible now. Certain changes of circumstance may call for sudden improvisation.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Your "feelings" now are far more reliable than advice from so-called experts. Never underestimate your truly extraordinary intuition.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Satisfying recognition and increased prestige can be attained by using a new approach. Don't stymie yourself by sticking to the traditional — as the Cancerian is sometimes wont to do.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Take the measures necessary to protect certain economic interests which may have been threatened. You can do it, but you'll need a cool, level head.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Stars promise interesting developments and growth in areas that should stimulate your ambitions — and your ever active mind.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Keep enlarging your sphere of contacts — particularly among those who share your interests and contribute to your personality development.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): A day calling for the utmost discretion. Taking issue with associates — even if you KNOW you are right — could have bitter consequences.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Mild influences indicate a so-so day unless you do something about it. But, in your search for more stimulating activities, don't go off on wild tangents.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Someone may try to place a burdensome imposition on you. Reject what you consider unfair, but graciously offer alternatives for handling.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Stellar influences only fairly generous, so you will have to provide your own momentum to carry on. Neither too many problems nor much opposition indicated.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): After some early morning confusion, day should turn out to be surprisingly productive. You also stand to gain financially.

YOU BORN TODAY are adaptable, enthusiastic, generous and extremely versatile along creative lines. You are more serious-minded than many other Gemini's and could find greater contentment in the business world than many others of your Sign. Along these lines, you could excel as a banker, publisher, promoter or manufacturer. In such case, however, you will probably take up one of the arts as a hobby since you MUST express yourself creatively to be completely happy. You are an excellent organizer and not only strike out for the extraordinary, but achieve in extraordinary fashion. You have unusual manual dexterity and could make an inventor par excellence. You have an affinity for the outdoors and all living things; would make an outstanding veterinarian or horticulturist. Birthdate of: Blaise Pascal, mathematician.

Ives Played In His Church

NEW YORK (AP) — The major observance in this city of American composer Charles Ives's 100th birthday was a concert of psalms and songs by Musica Sacra of New York, at Central Presbyterian Church.

This church is appropriate, as Ives was organist there from 1899 to 1902. He was 28 when he left that post which was the last "paying" musical job Ives is known to have held. Also, the majority of works offered at the concert were written by Ives during the period he was employed by Central Presbyterian Church.

Ives was one of the first American composers to utilize multidirectional sound such as the technique employed by the early churches of Italy. This element was emphasized in the concert through the placement of bells and choruses in various locations within the church, most notably in the 10-minute "Psalms 90" which Ives's wife said was his favorite work.

Paul Anderson of Georgia lifted the greatest weight in history in 1957. The 364-pound giant raised 6,270 pounds in a back lift.

The aim of the American Association of Blood Banks is to improve the quality and safety of human blood transfusions by providing technical information, encouraging research and promoting the voluntary concept of blood donation.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The next time Cloris Leachman stars in a television pilot they should forget the fiction.

Let a writer follow Cloris around for a week or so, and then — after he recovers from exhaustion — devise a series based on her hectic private life with her five children.

Forget "Pete 'n' Tillie" and all the other pilots she has made. Get the essence of this delightfully eccentric woman down on paper. Life, as she says, can be a zany scene out of "What's Up Doc."

"The last 20 years of my life has been unbelievable," she said. "It was a TV show. The other day I was getting breakfast for the kids."

"My son had a pet rat Wendell for four years, and the cat walks in with a tail and the hind end of a rat. It was Wendell until we could check."

Cloris' life is centered around her family. For years she has subordinated her career to it. It is only in recent years that she has become so much in demand, winning an Oscar for "The Last Picture Show," and Emmys for her dramatic and comedy performances.

She has become a reigning star of the TV movie, in such films as "Haunts of the Very Rich," "A Brand New Life," "Dying Room Only," and "Hitchhike," for ABC and the CBS special "The Migrants." She has just completed "After the Trial" for ABC. "I hate to be categorized that way," she said, sitting in the living room of her Mandeville Canyon home.

"It should just be part of one's wardrobe, so to speak.

You go where the roles are, where the colorful entertainment elements of the acting profession are.

"We can't determine what part of the medium we'll be working in. I'm an actress, not a leading lady. Not a comedienne. Not a serious actress. I'm an actress."

"There are just more TV movies available than feature films. I like making them. The tempo suits me. In feature films it's still a man's world. There were many female stars in the old days and somehow it got turned around."

Cloris goes back and forth between TV movies, feature films — she has just finished "Young Frankenstein" — and "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

"Basically," she said, "I like never to know what's around the next corner. Since I'm an optimist I always expect something interesting, exciting or beautiful. If it isn't so I will make it so by sheer dent."

Then she was off to take one child to the dentist and another to buy shoes.

Westfall Board Hires Co-Athletic Directors

The Westfall Board of Education employed two staff members in the capacity of co-athletic directors at Monday's regular monthly meeting. High school principal Robert Debo served as the athletic director during the past school year but found the added responsibility too much with his job as principal.

John Glanton and Michael Eckle had both indicated interest in sharing the job. The board decided to hire them on that basis with Glanton taking the responsibilities for seven months of the ten-month season and Eckle taking the job during football season or for three months. The $750 salary set forth for the athletic director will be pro-rated on a 10-month basis with the man in charge of a particular month receiving the $75 for that month.

The board also employed the services of the Contract Management Company, Columbus, to serve as the construction manager in the building of the new middle school. The company will work with both the board and the architect in keeping costs at a minimum but still overseeing the construction to the satisfaction of both parties.

A request from music teacher Paula Swinehart to purchase a new piano for the vocal music room was considered by the board and a model accepted for purchase. The piano which now serves the high school is ten years old and is used both in the gymnasium and the vocal music room and must be moved from place to place.

Superintendent Gordon Massie pointed out to the board that in case funds did not provide for a piano for the new middle school one of those at the high school could be used there temporarily.

Three quotes had been received and were considered individually by the board. Identical Baldwin pianos were quoted by Summers and Sons at $1,075 and Graves Piano Company at $975. A quote from Coyle Music Center was given on a Kawai piano for $995. The Kawai piano is a Japanese brand and the music teacher had recommended the brand since it uses many aluminum parts where American brands use wooden parts. The board decided, however, to stay with the Baldwin piano and a resolution was passed to purchase it at the lowest quote from Graves Piano Company. The purchase price includes a bench, set up and the first tuning.

A lunchroom report was given by the clerk-treasurer Kenneth Reid which showed that the lunchroom came out in the black last year. A discussion was held on the rising cost of food and the possibility of the lunchroom not doing so well next year even with the potential raise in the high school lunch.

Textbooks for reading classes one through six, Spanish and French were adopted by the board as recommended by the county selection committee. The county office directs a selection committee and adopts books which are then recommended to the three local districts who can either adopt or reject the textbooks. Three teachers from the Westfall District were appointed by Massie to serve on the committee.

One Teays Valley kindergarten student was accepted into the Westfall District on a tuition basis. This makes the fifth tuition student in the district and as with the others, this one was accepted on condition that the classes were not too large to accommodate an additional member. Teays Valley will have kindergarten classes beginning in the fall of 1975.

Resignations as follows were accepted by the board: Robert Debo from his position as athletic director; Florence Musselman as bus driver; Ann Ziegel as a junior high teacher; Joyce C. Kern as secretary at Darby School.

Superintendent Massie's report to the board included a letter stating that all buildings in the district are now meeting Title II requirements. An examination of the facilities under the program was conducted earlier this year and met with all the standards set forth.

A letter from the Sohio Company notified the board that as of June 1, all distillate fuels would be decreased in price by five cents per gallon. All of the tanks in the district had been filled on May 28 so the price decrease was of no benefit to Westfall.

Massie reported that the additional unit of special education for which he had applied had not been received. He said a primary educable mentally retarded unit was needed in the district.

John Glanton was employed by the board to care for the high school grounds at $2.50 per hour. He was employed last year in this capacity. Massie also told the board that the mowing equipment was presently broken at the high school and the board authorized him to seek bids for a rotary mower for a tractor.

Plumbing and heating equipment repairs were discussed by the board including the painting at the high school which will be delegated to the custodians and the other painting which will be hired out to painters.

New desks from American Seating have been ordered and the board decided if they prove to be sturdy the company will be considered when desks are ordered for the new school.

The board passed a resolution to meet again on June 26 since bond bids are due that date and consideration will be given to making an award.

TV Board Employs Teacher

One teacher was employed by the Teays Valley Board of Education in Monday's meeting. One teacher's resignation was accepted during the meeting and staff assignments for the fall were approved. Employed was Judith Corbett as an elementary teacher and resigning was Beverly Young, third grade teacher at Scioto Elementary School.

The textbooks for elementary reading and high school foreign languages were adopted as recommended by the teacher study committee supervised by the county office.

An increase in the rate of payment for mileage was approved from the present rate of ten cents per mile to 12 cents per mile.

Two transfers within the appropriation measure were approved in routine board action. A short-term investment in accordance with adopted procedure was also approved.

Vicki McCannaha was employed as part-time secretarial work. Miss McCannaha is a 1974 graduate of Teays Valley High School.

Approval was granted for the use of the Ashville Elementary building by the Community Club and the Civic Club for the Fourth of July displays.

Quotations for painting as submitted by Richard Kidwell and quotations for blacktopping at the Ashville building as submitted by Roese Brothers were accepted and approved. The board also approved the installation of a Columbus phone line at the high school building.

Considerable time was devoted to a discussion of the non-certified salaries and the board adjourned with a resolution to meet in a continued session on Thursday at 8 p.m. to reach a decision on the subject.

Pair Charged For Having Barbiturates

An 18-year-old girl and her 17-year-old companion, both of Woodbridge, Va., are being held in Pickaway County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bond for possession of barbiturates.

They were arrested Monday at 7:50 p.m. by Circleville Police Sgt. Wes Barton and Ptl. Jim Ford, who witnessed a drug sale while on routine patrol.

According to the police report, the officers spotted the pair talking with a man on W. Main St. While the 17-year-old boy returned to his car, the girl went with the man and was allegedly given a brown paper bag.

She returned to her car and the couple headed towards Route 23.

The officers stopped them at the northbound on-ramp. They found the paper bag containing two smaller plastic bags of 281 assorted barbiturates, termed "downers" by Sgt. Barton.

The drugs included nitroglycerin, lisrax, dramamine, dilantin, bentyll, phenegan, equagesic, dalamane, ascorbic acid, aspirin, tylenol, thorazine, and decadron.

Bloodmobile Collects 107 Units At Orient

Staff and volunteers from Pickaway County Red Cross Chapter travelled to Orient State Institute on Friday to conduct a Bloodmobile visit for the staff of the school. 159 members of the staff registered and 107 units of blood were collected.

Since this was an extra visit, not originally scheduled, it will improve the County's performance record toward maintaining the year's quota.

Since the institute is in Pickaway County, the residents are covered under the Pickaway County Blood Program and this was an opportunity for the employees to assist in providing the supply.

Adult volunteers from Circleville who assisted were: Mrs. Royce Woolever, Mrs. Lewis Dean, Mrs. Charles Walker, Mrs. Marion Good, Mrs. Ben Brian, Mrs. Robert Dahl, Mrs. Howard Houston and Mrs. Elizabeth Hutchison. EVERY DAY IS SAVINGS DAY - ON EVERYTHING AT REVCO

As more Indians leave the urban areas and return to the reservations, Indian leaders fear a spread of the drug abuse problem, said Bob Moore, executive director of the American Indian Commission on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse.

Moore spoke at the opening session of the Ohio Drug Institute. The institute continues here through the week.

Moore blamed the availability of drugs and the money to purchase them on rampant drug addiction among urbanized Indians.

Recently, there has begun a migration of Indians from the cities to the reservation, Moore said.

"We are apprehensive of a major drug epidemic," among reservation Indians as a result, he added.

Until recently reservations— with 65 per cent unemployment—could not support drug pushers, Moore said.

"A drug pusher would have to be dumb to try to peddle his wares on a reservation as it stands now," he said. "But let a little money in . . ."

Indians are turning away from urban areas because "They've found that what they want is at the reservations, where the air is fresh and clean," he said.

"We believed the white man when he said come to the big cities," said Moore, who is a Seneca Indian from Miami, Okla.

"We found poverty, disease, dirt and dope."

Moore said a feeling of alienation from society and a lack of a native culture are at the roots of drug and alcohol dependency among Indians.

"Alcohol is the poor man's psychiatrist, a chemical pain reliever, a problem-solver," he said. Many Indian children are addicted to inhalants, he said.

Indians have 20 times the number of highway deaths as the national average because of alcoholism, and 15 times as many suicides among their young people, he said.

Sixty-five per cent of all Indian hospital deaths are directly related to alcohol, he said.

Moore said he believes the only way to fight the problem is to give Indians back the things they once had—a native religion, a native culture, and the opportunities to work their lands without government interference.

"Efforts to model whites causes a great deal of pain," he said.

"Drinking and taking drugs is a way to deal with that pain."

Westfall Board Hires Co-Athletic Directors

The Westfall Board of Education employed two staff members in the capacity of co-athletic directors at Monday's regular monthly meeting. High school principal Robert Debo served as the athletic director during the past school year but found the added responsibility too much with his job as principal.

John Glanton and Michael Eckle had both indicated interest in sharing the job. The board decided to hire them on that basis with Glanton taking the responsibilities for seven months of the ten-month season and Eckle taking the job during football season or for three months. The $750 salary set forth for the athletic director will be pro-rated on a 10-month basis with the man in charge of a particular month receiving the $75 for that month.

The board also employed the services of the Contract Management Company, Columbus, to serve as the construction manager in the building of the new middle school. The company will work with both the board and the architect in keeping costs at a minimum but still overseeing the construction to the satisfaction of both parties.

A request from music teacher Paula Swinehart to purchase a new piano for the vocal music room was considered by the board and a model accepted for purchase. The piano which now serves the high school is ten years old and is used both in the gymnasium and the vocal music room and must be moved from place to place.

Superintendent Gordon Massie pointed out to the board that in case funds did not provide for a piano for the new middle school one of those at the high school could be used there temporarily.

Three quotes had been received and were considered individually by the board. Identical Baldwin pianos were quoted by Summers and Sons at $1,075 and Graves Piano Company at $975. A quote from Coyle Music Center was given on a Kawai piano for $995.
